And Claim They Have the Right Man.

The Wanderings of the Prisoner Recounted.

Touching Scene When the Father and Sheriff Met—A Photograph of Roberts Taken for the Bee Readers

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—(Special)—There are very few new features in the Roberts case. Prosecuting Attorney Bailey and William Maple returned from Toledo last night and report that the alleged alibi case will not hold water. They saw the majority of the witnesses mentioned in yesterday's BEE, and claim that in no single case can it be proved that James Madison Roberts, the prisoner, is the man who was in Toledo.

One of the latest developments is the fact that Roberts has a brother who resembles him very much and who, it is said, lives at Charlotte, Mich.

Mr. Bailey believes that if a son of Roberts was present at his home in Toledo on August 8, it was the Michigan brother.

Before Mrs. Roberts left for Toledo yesterday a BEE interviewed her on this point. In reply to a direct query she said:

"Yes, I have another son, but he is in Texas."

"How long since you have seen him?"

"Oh, not in a long time."

Attorney Dick Long, who has been retained for the defense, speaking with a BEE on the subject, said:

"Yes, I understand there is another brother living somewhere, probably in Kansas."

Mr. Long, who by the way, defended Blair, the Putnam county murderer recently being at Columbus, thinks he has a good case and can easily clear his client.

"Everyone from Columbus Grove," he said, "say they can identify the man, but wait till they get on the stand. Why, Mr. Maple admits that he was looking at the point of the revolver and not at the shooter during the few minutes he remained in the bank."

Sentiment in Ottawa.

The general sentiment among the people of Ottawa is that the right man has not yet been secured.

Mayor Sweeny talking with a BEE said: "There seems to be considerable doubt even in the minds of Columbus Grove people as to his identity. If Roberts can secure the witnesses they speak of in Toledo, why, they cannot hold him. No, there is not the least chance for the slightest disorder."

Sheriff Williamson was asked his private opinion on the matter.

"There is no doubt about it but there are strong points of resemblance, but the question remains, was he in Toledo or Columbus Grove on the date of the murder?"

"Do you think he is shamming insanity?"

"No, the fellow is scared out of his boots. You remember how he spoke to you. Well, a little while after I went in and he spoke as rational as anyone."

"Has he made anything like a confession?"

"No. About noon I admitted two blacksmiths from Columbus Grove. Roberts was sitting down. You noticed that his foot is somewhat crooked. One of the vistors asked him to stand up which he did. 'Has your foot been always that way.' 'Yes,' was the reply. 'I was born that way.' After we came out I asked the man what he meant, and he said Roberts was the man. He knew him by the crooked foot."

The BEE hunted the two men up and found one of them, who said he had seen the murderer buy the revolvers from Mr. Crawford.

"Do you think Roberts is the man?" he was asked.

"Well, I wouldn't like to say. You see I simply had a passing glance at him, and it is pretty hard for anyone to identify a man you have seen but once."

The fact is almost every witness from Columbus Grove has seen the whole affair, but none of them are sure of the man.

Mr. Crawford, the hardware merchant from whom the revolvers were secured, agrees with Mr. Maple that Roberts is the murderer, but he was so scared that it is not at all likely he took much of a look at the buyer of the articles.

The most valuable witness for the prosecution will probably be a young lad named Hartman, who lives 2½ miles east of the Grove. He says that on the day of the murder a man approached the house and asked for a drink of water, which was given him.

He noticed that the stranger held his hands in his pockets and he saw the butt end of a revolver sticking out of the pocket of his coat. Upon the approach of some one the stranger hurried away and hid in a cornfield. The boy was taken to Washington yesterday, and after some time positively identified Roberts as the man. He did not recognize him at first, as the stranger had a moustache and wore a sack coat. Upon seeing him walk, however, he said Roberts was the same man.

Mr. Roberts, the father of the prisoner, has made many friends here. He is an old soldier, and quite a number in Ottawa were in the same regiment with him. He seems an honest old man, and much sympathy is felt for him.

Peculiar Incident.

A somewhat peculiar incident occurred yesterday about noon. Mr. Roberts and Cashier Maple met face to face opposite the Leopold hotel. They were introduced, and began a conversation which was listened by a large crowd of people.

Mr. Maple said he believed that Jim Roberts was the man who did the shooting. Mr. Roberts on the other hand declared that he was prepared to prove that his son was at home in Toledo on the day of the tragedy.

"If you can do that you will clear him," said Mr. Maple, and they separated.

Mr. Maple said to a BEE, who was present, that he had no personal grudge against the prisoner, but wanted him to have a fair and square show for his life.

"You had a close shave, Mr. Maple?" said the BEE.

"Yes; one bullet struck me there (left arm), another whizzed past my ear, and a third passed between my side and arm and fell on the floor."

Roberts Is Not Crazy.

During the afternoon Roberts became more composed and talked rationally with a large number of visitors. Dr. Beardsley called with a few others, and had a quiet game of cards with the prisoner. He was still somewhat excited and kept looking around him as if afraid of something.

"It is an old trick," said the doctor to a BEE, "when the prisoner is trying to play the insanity dodge."

"Then you do not think him insane?"

"Why, no, the fellow is evidently badly frightened, and his nerves are completely unstrung. That would account for it in a great measure."

During the interview with the BEE in the morning, Roberts manifested signs of insanity. A few moments before the BEE entered, Roberts' father had left the jail.

"Have you seen your father this morning, Jim?" the BEE asked.

"No, I do not know that I have. I seen some man here who said he was my father. I think he is a Mr. Roberts."

"Have you met your mother since you came to the city?"

"No, I have not seen her. She is a good woman though, and if she knew I was in trouble she would come to my help."

At the suggestion of a bystander the BEE said:

"Jim, do you know they have the money and the satchel?"

"No, I did not hear that. If they have, why that is all the evidence they want, isn't it? What are they keeping me here for? Why don't they bring me up?"

The prisoner spoke very freely on every question with all the visitors, and talked through the bars on every question that was asked him till instructed by his attorney, Mr. Long, not to be interviewed. He absolutely refuses to talk, except with the sheriff and his attendants.

Taking the Prisoner's Picture.

Arrangements were made by some newspaper men with Sheriff Williamson, who by the way, is a most accommodating and obliging gentleman, to have the prisoner's picture taken as he appeared behind the bars.

After skirmishing around for some time a photographer was secured and taken with his instruments to the jail. Asked if he had any objections to having his picture taken, Roberts replied pleasantly that he had none, as it was quite a while since he had had his phiz on paper.

JAMES MADISON ROBERTS,
(Photographed in jail for the BEE yesterday.)

He seemed to rather enjoy the situation, though from the expression of the picture herewith given, it will be seen that he was badly frightened.

The picture, however, is not a good one, and does not do him justice. The day was dark and rainy, and the photographer did not have an opportunity to take a good picture.

When the photographer had finished he asked if one of the pictures would not be given him, and one of the newspaper men readily volunteered to send him one.

What Mr. Bailey Discovered.

Before going to Toledo yesterday Mr. Bailey visited Carey and interviewed Roberts' relatives there. He was told that an alibi would be proven by Toledo friends of the prisoner and that the witnesses would be for the most part composed of the family circle.

It appears from what Mr. Bailey says that neither Dr. Cowdrick nor Mr. Stahl can state positively that James Roberts was in Auburndale on the 8th of August.

It appears from the evidence secured so far by Mr. Bailey that the prisoner enlisted some time ago in the regular army at Detroit and deserted from Columbus just previous to his being sent to a western fort. His friends here, it is said, urged him to return, as he would be eventually arrested as a deserter. He enlisted while under the influence of drink, and was sorry for it as soon as he got sober.

The trouble he had with his wife, who eloped some months ago, seems to have unsettled his mind somewhat. He began drinking very heavily shortly after her disappearance, and has kept it up steadily ever since.

Mr. Roberts, Senior, Talks.

When Jacob Roberts, father of the prisoner, arrived in Ottawa, he was accosted by Sheriff Williamson, and without knowing who his interlocutor was, spoke freely and fully on the Columbus Grove murder.

"If you know the prosecutor," he said, "or the sheriff, I wish you would send him around to me."

In the meantime Sheriff Williamson had elecited the fact that the prisoner had never shown any signs or indication of insanity.

"If the prisoner is insane," said Mr. Roberts, "then he is not my son. He is not the kind of boy that was ever given to tantrums of any kind."

"If you have anything to say to the sheriff," said Mr. Williamson, "you had better say it to me. I am the sheriff."

Mr. Roberts seemed somewhat surprised, but turning to the sheriff, he grasped his hand and said:

"All I ask is a fair show for my boy. Of course there is some chance of mob violence, and I want you to do the best you can to save him."

"Mob violence, nothing," replied the sheriff, "if I am not big enough to look out for the prisoner and take care of the jail I can get plenty of men in Ottawa county to help me."

There is no doubt but what the prisoner is being safely guarded and well cared for.

BOUND OVER TO COURT.

James M. Roberts Will Be Held for the Crime.

Ottawa, O., Aug. 25.—(Special)—James M. Roberts, the man charged with the murder and bank robbery at Columbus Grove, was this morning brought before Mayor Sweeney.

He waived an examination and was bound over to court.

CAN PROVE AN ALIBI.

Have the Ottawa Officers Got the Wrong Man?

Upper Sandusky, Aug. 25.—(Special—A report is being circulated here this morning that Roberts, the fellow under arrest on the charge of being the Columbus Grove bank robber, was in this city the evening preceding August 8, and took a freight train for Toledo, and was in that city seeing his invalid father on the day the murder and robbery was committed.

Inquiry develops the fact that about that time he was visiting his sister, Mrs. Mack Green's, three miles northeast of this place. She is a frank, honest woman and claims that on the 7th he received a postal from Toledo notifying him of the serious illness of his father.

We arranged togo to that city, and her husband drove him to the Hocking Valley depot here.

They missed the train and Roberts later took a freight.

On Tuesday he returned from Toledo and Saturday went to New Washington.

The fellow's valise is in Mrs. Green's possession. It is locked, but she is confident it contains nothing.

That he was in Toledo on the 8th she is positive, as he brought things to her from that place.

It looks as though the fellow now under arrest can prove his innocence.

HIS MEANDERINGS.

Roberts Claimed to be Troubled About His Wife.

Upper Sandusky, Aug. 25.—It was ascertained here that James Roberts, the alleged Columbus Grove robber, came to this city on July 25. He stayed in the neighborhood about a week, going from here to his cousin, who owns a farm a few miles north of Carey, saying that he was going to Toledo to get some letters, which he wanted to obtain in order to get a divorce from his wife, who ran away from him a short time after they were married. A few days after the robbery he again showed up at his cousin's, and last Wednesday was sent to Carey to get a plow point.

This was the last that was seen of him in this locality. When he went away he left his coat and vest and a small valise behind. Fearing that something had happened him, his uncle wrote to Robert's mother at Toledo, but it was learned that he did not go there. Roberts is supposed to have been without money, and was very despondent over his family troubles. Roberts came here from Galion.

TOOK HIS OWN LIFE.

A Suicide Who Is Suspected of Being the Robber.

Cincinnati, Aug. 25.—About 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon a young man appeared in Milford, 12 miles north of here, and at the point of a revolver demanded food of several persons and got it.

He retreated out of the village and shot himself dead. Only a few coins were found in his pocket.

There were no means of identifying him. He was about 25 years old, had a smooth face, weight about 165 pounds and was dressed in a neat brown shirt and dark trousers. There are suspicions at Milford that he was the real Columbus Grove bank robber and murderer.

IN TOLEDO.

The Bee Talks With Parties Named In Connection With the Affair.

There is much local interest manifest concerning the Roberts' arrest because of the parties having a residence in Toledo, and the BEE has sought to gain all the information possible. A call was made on Mr. Stahl, who says he is not certain that he saw James Roberts Saturday. After considering the matter he says he believes it was Sunday evening, not Saturday evening, that he saw the young man in his father's house. It was stated at Mr. Stahl's office this morning that he had gone to Bellevue on business, but it appears that he will also visit Ottawa with a view of identifying the prisoner.

The theory that the young man seen at the house may have been the second brother seems to be founded on suspicion merely. Should it turn out that neither Dr. Cowdrick or Mr. Stahl saw Roberts on Saturday the prosecution will have something to go upon, as the evidence of relatives will be necessarily taken with a grain of salt by a jury.

Opinion in Toledo.

In banking and business circles generally the matter is being thoroughly discussed.

A number of bankers were discussing it in a Madison street office this morning. Said one:

"If the prisoner is crazy as alleged, it is, to my mind, an evidence that he is the real murderer. None but a crazy man would have committed the deed. Imagine a sane man, however brave, going into a hardware store, and after securing a couple of revolvers by force stepping into a bank and shooting people down in that manner, why, it is absurd."

Another said that in the event of Roberts getting free there will never be a chance to convict the real murderer should he be caught.

"The positive identification of the prisoner," said he, "by these seven men from Columbus Grove, should he go free, would save the neck of the real murderer before any jury."

Dr. Cowdrick's Statement.

Dr. Cowdrick, of Auburndale, who, Roberts says, was at his home Saturday and saw him there, was visited yesterday by Prosecutor Baily, of Putnam county, William Maple, brother of the wounded cashier, and also a BEE. The doctor, however, failed to prove what Roberts said he would.

"I was not called to the Roberts home until Sunday evening," said the doctor, "when I attended the father, who seemed to be suffering from some nervous trouble. There was then in the house a young man, a stranger to me, but who I at the time supposed was a son. I did not pay much attention to him and so am not sure. I think they called him Jim. From their talk I also thought that he had been away and had just returned home."

This was all the doctor knew about the matter, and as the crime was committed Saturday morning it was not very satisfactory.

A Talk With Mrs. Campbell.

Mrs. E. A. Campbell, 2533 Detroit avenue, was interviewed this morning as to her brother being in this city on Saturday, the 8th of August. She says that early on the above morning her mother started with her little grandson, Mrs. Campbell's child, to go over to her daughter's, Mrs Braddock's, on Lagrange street. When near Collingwood avenue she met her son James, who had returned to the city from near Carey, and was on his way to his sister's. He picked up his little nephew and carried him most of the way home.

The mother and son arrived at Mrs. Campbell's shortly after 8 a. m. Mr. Roberts was seen around home during Saturday, Sunday and Monday by the neighbors, some of whom are personally acquainted with him.

Mrs. Campbell says that she wrote a letter for her brother Saturday afternoon, to Mrs. Green near Carey, but on account of some objections to it, the letter was not sent. Roberts himself wrote a letter for his father, to attorney McDonald, at New Washington, about his father's pension.

Roberts was present at the bed-side of his father, who had had a slight stroke of paralysis, and was seen by Mr Geo. Stahl and Dr. Cowdrick at the time.

Mrs. Campbell also states that she played checkers with her brother in the front yard, on the Saturday that the murder was committed.

Mrs. Critchell, of Delaware street, will testify that she saw Mrs. Roberts meet and return home with her son on Saturday morning.

A letter was received at the house this morning from Mrs. Roberts, from Ottawa.

It was dated Sunday and states that there is a good bit of excitement, but the general impression is that they have the wrong man.

Mrs. Campbell says that her brother never wore whiskers as he could not raise them, and that he could not even raise a respectable-looking moustache.

Mrs. Roberts received a postal from her son that was written at New Washington, August 21, but not mailed.

He says: "Mother, please send me a check for $10, until I come home. I will probably see you in a few days.

"Sincerely,

"Jim."

Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Campbell are very much excited over the affair and are doing all they can to collect evidence from the neighbors to prove that their son and brother was at home when the murder was committed.

Most of the neighbors who noticed the young man about the place, while not personally acquainted with him, have seen him there often and would recognize him again.

As to the box of pool checks and several ear rings in Roberts' possession, his sister says that their sister, Mrs. Braddock, gave them to him only a short while ago, and that they still have the settings in the ear rings.

Both Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Roberts are positive in all of their statements, and feel sure that the boy will soon be released and with them again.

DODGED THE TARIFF.

Republican Editors See the Error of Their Way.

They Have Banded Together for the Purpose of Ignoring Their Party's Issue.

Columbus, O., Aug. 25.—Fifty republican editors of the state met here yesterday to discuss the coming campaign and agree upon a plan of action.

It was decided to make the coinage question the leading issue of the campaign.

John Hopley, of Bucyrus, was chairman, and S. J. Flickinger, secretary.

FLOWER TO BE NOMINATED

Political Gossip from the Empire State.

Colonel Fellows on the Ohio Situation.

He Does Not Think that Republican Money Can Defeat Campbell This Fall.

New York, Aug. 25.—The work of the democratic state convention, which will assemble in Saratoga on September 15, is already mapped out, and there is little doubt that Roswell P. Flower will be a candidate for governor.

Gov. Hill has finally become convinced that it would destroy his presidential chances to be again a gubernatorial nominee, especially while still remaining a United States senator.

It is also reasonably certain that no effort will be made in the convention to test the relative strength of Cleveland and Hill in the democratic party of the state, and therefore no resolution commending or indorsing any presidential candidate will be offered.

The convention is expected to be in session two days, and after its adjournment the braves of Tammany hall will invade the soil of Pennsylvania on September 17 to dedicate on the battle-field of Gettysburg the memorial stone intended to commemorate the bravery of the Forty-fifth regiment of New York Volunteers.

That organization was composed entirely of members of Tammany hall, and the big chiefs of that famous political association will all journey to Pennsylvania to do honor to the occasion. It is likely that Congressman John R. Fellows will be the orator of the celebration.

Speaking to-day of the political situation Congressman Fellows said: "It is too early to make any prediction as to the nominee of the national democratic convention. Cleveland and Hill have each a strong following in New York state, but what action the party will take as to their respective candidacies is difficult to foretell.

"I believe that both Gov. Pattison, of Pennsylvania, and Gov. Campbell, of Ohio, may be very strong factors in the presidential struggle—one for what he is, the other for what he may be. I know little about Pennsylvania politics, but I hear whispers from the state that it is likely to go democratic next fall.

"I can scarcely believe this possible, but should it occur the republican party is apt to find some difficulty in securing a candidate for the presidency.

"The Ohio fight is likely to have a very strong bearing upon the national contest. The republicans fully appreciate that fact. They have as their candidate the father of the much-discussed McKinley bill, and they know that his defeat would be a calamity from which the party would find it difficult to recover.

"Consequently large sums of money, especially from this city, are being poured into Ohio to aid Gov. Campbell's defeat. All the strength of the great republican organization is being brought to bear to insure a victory for McKinley.

"In fact such a stupendous effort is making against him that I do not see how it is possible for Gov. Campbell to win. Should he, however, prove victorious, I think there is little doubt that the democratic national convention would make him its candidate, and in such an event you would not find a republican willing to bet one dollar against one thousand dollars that the democratic nominee would be defeated at the polls."

OUR COUNTRY'S WEALTH.

It is Placed at Sixty-two Millions.

An Interesting Bulletin from Porter, Which, If Correct, Will Be of Much Value.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The census bureau has issued a bulletin on the assessed valuation of real and personal property of the several states and territories.

The valuations are shown for the years 1890 and 1880, with the exceptions of Michigan, which is for 1886, and of Arkansas, Delaware, Iowa, Mississippi, New Mexico, Washington and Wyoming, which are for 1889.

The bulletin shows that the assessed value of all property has increased from $16,902,903,543 in 1880, to $24,249,589,804 in 1890, and increase during the decade of $7,346,596,261, an amount equivalent to the true value of all property as returned by the United States census in 1850 ($7,135,780,228).

Should it be found upon the completion of the inquiry in relation to the true value of all property in the United States that the same relation exists in 1890 between assessed valuation and true valuation as existed in 1880, the absolute wealth of the United States, according to the eleventh census, may be estimated at $62,610,000,000, or nearly $1,000 per capita, as against $214 per capita in 1860, $780 per capita in 1870, and $870 per capita in 1880.

The final returns showing the absolute wealth of the country will necessarily be among the last publications of this office, as complete data for the calculation is not available until after the inquiries relating to agriculture and manufactures have been finished.

The state of Illinois shows an apparent decrease of $50,200,124 because the state board of equalization declares that in 1880 the assessed value was 50 per cent, and in 1890 only 25 per cent. of the true value. Among the states showing an increase of assessed valuation are the following:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Alabama | $74,213,213 | Arizona | 12,164,553 |
| Arkansas | 75,999,133 | California | 498,564,291 |
| Colorado | 114,429,632 | Idaho | 19,140,429 |
| Illinois | 59,230,142 | Indiana | 50,056,595 |
| Iowa | 79,646,997 | Kansas | 129,702,022 |
| Kentucky | 162,051,535 | Louisiana | 73,158,341 |
| Michigan | 427,783,641 | Minnesota | 259,503,756 |
| Mississippi | 46,893,777 | Missouri | 253,547,902 |
| Montana | 87,574,09 | Nebraska | 94,184,623 |
| Nevada | 4,628,074 | New Mexico | 34,677,604 |
| New York | 1,183,385,932 | N. Dakota | 49,667,964 |
| Ohio | 245,777,949 | Oregon | 113,505,647 |
| Pen'sylvania | 909,282,016 | S. Dakota | 120,757,629 |
| Tennessee | 135,731,565 | Texas | 375,477,805 |
| Utah | 79,983,471 | Washington | 140,984,756 |
| W. Virginia | 89,504,882 | Wisconsin | 153,918,168 |
| Wyoming | 17,809,600 | | |

The bulletin further shows that in 1890 (exclusive of Oklahoma) the assessed valuation per capita was $887.02 against $337.01 in 1880, and that while the increase in population was 24.86 per cent, the increase per capita of assessed valuation was 43.46 per cent.

Birth on a Train.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 25.—A woman by the name of Williams, en route from Brooklyn, N. Y., to Memphis, gave birth on a train yesterday afternoon, a short distance east of Greenville, Tenn. She notified the conductor of her condition and he quickly conveyed her from a day coach to a sleeper, where the child was born. The lady passengers lent a hand and looked after the youngster. He proved a 9 pound boy, hale and hearty, and was named Romulus, after the sleeping car in which he first saw the light. The mother and child were left at a house in Farm Village and both were doing well.

STANFORD IN THE RACE.

He Makes His Political Ambitions Known.

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—There is no longer any mystery about Senator Stanford's political preferences. After careful deliberation he has decided to become a republican presidential candidate. The Weekly Argus here, which is Stanford's personal organ, appears this week with a three column double leaded article, with portrait of Stanford and the following headlines: "Senator Leland Stanford, the Pacific coast's favorite for the presidency. Sound reasons why the republican party should nominate him."

As the article is printed at Stanford's request there is no longer any doubt about his boom being well under way.

Destroyed by Fire.

The Brainard Party Found by Friends.

The Yacht a Complete Wreck and the People Ill from the Lack of Food.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 25.—The Brainard party, from Cincinnati and Pittsburg, which was wrecked on Chapel beach, Pictured Rocks, on Thursday last, was rescued yesterday in a half-starved condition by the tug Fishing Queen.

The party consisted of Ira A. Brainard and wife, and W. H. Brainard, of Pittsburg, and John R. Davey, J. McDougall and J. C. Sheets and wife, of Cincinnati.

After going ashore at Chapel beach, the party took refuge in a cave but the steam launch was sunk by the storm.

Though thoroughly weakened by a fast of three days with no food but berries, all the party are fairly well save Mrs. Sheets, who is in quite a serious condition. The guides sent through the woods with provisions failed to reach the party.

EUROPE A TINDER PILE.

Ready for the Flaming Torch of War.

Franco-Russian Intrigue Is Causing Alarm.

Everybody on the Streets of Berlin Is Talking Fight—Interesting Foreign Gossip.

London, Aug. 25.—The report that France and Russia had virtually agreed, that, in the event of a victory over Germany, they would have Schleswig reannexed to Denmark, has caused considerable comment in Berlin, where the war feeling has been mounting high for some days past.

This rumor, however, has called to public attention other rumors of a similar nature regarding the triple alliance. It was stated recently on high authority at Vienna that one of the unwritten agreements of the triple alliance was, in the event of success in a continental war, to disable Russia forever, by divesting the empire of Poland, Finland and the Baltic provinces, and compelling the czar to abandon St. Petersburg for Moscow.

France at the same time was to be compelled to give up Nice and Corsica to Italy. These arrangements are understood to be merely provisional, but the fact that they are talked of shows the deliberate way in which European nations are preparing for the gigantic struggle.

The Russian rifle factories are running night and day on the new breech-loading repeating rifle, with which it is proposed to arm all the infantry, both of the active army and the reserve. But although the greatest diligence is shown in manufacture, it is believed that at least two years will elapse before the whole of military force of the empire will be provided with the weapon. This would not prevent Russia from going to war in the meantime, as not less than 400,000 men will have the rifle within this year.

Berry has redeemed his reputation as a hangman. The execution of Watts, the wife murderer, to-day, was performed with neatness and promptitude. It is said that the high sheriff of Hants gave the hangman notice, through a subordinate, that there must be no drinking, not even of brandy and soda, previous to the execution. The condemned was allowed a stimulant, although that privilege was denied to Berry. The result was no repetition of the Liverpool horror.

A dispatch from Moscow says that even the Jewish merchants of the First Guild are preparing to leave the city. The latest order makes it impossible for them to carry on business, as Jews are not allowed to employ Christians, and all other Jews but the merchants of the first guild being ordered to leave Moscow, the merchants can no longer conduct their traffic. Besides the freedom of the guild is liable to yearly revocation, and would not probably be renewed. The result will be that in the course of a few months Moscow will be entirely clear of Jews. Owing to the fact that Jews are being sent back in large numbers on account of destitution from Germany and Austria, the Russian government has issued orders to the police to abstain from plundering Jews who are on their way out of Russia.

The French fleet started homeward to-day, bound for Cherbourg. The British sailors gave the visitors three hearty cheers which were heartily responded to. Last evening over 1,000 French sailors, accompanied by a number of their officers, were entertained at the town hall in Portsmouth, as guests of the municipality. The decorations, marquises and other appurtenances, for the previous reception of the officers and other distinguished guests, remained in position and augmented the effect of the entertainment. The directors of the royal sailors' home at Portsmouth gave the French seamen all the privileges of membership during their stay. The mayor of Portsmouth who presided at the entertainment, expressed the earnest desire of Englishmen to remain on terms of peace with all nations.

King Alexander of Servia has been appointed honorary colonel of an Austrian regiment, as a mark of the esteem of the Austrian kaiser.

WM. M'DERMOTT CAUGHT.

Arrested for a Bold and Bloody Crime.

A Train Robber Who Will Come to Grief Before the Pennsylvania Courts.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Nearly a week ago the police received word from Corry, Pa., that Wm. McDermott had held up a train on August 17, on the Western New York & Pennsylvania railroad as it was coming into Corry.

The train held up was a local and McDermott did it in true Jesse James style. He was aided by two confederates. Each of his pals held a door with revolvers and McDermott did the work.

Brandishing a revolver, he commanded the frightened women in the car to give up their vaulables. They hastily obeyed.

The desperado then pounced upon an old man and woman and beat them into unconsciousness, leaving them for dead. He then shot another woman and dangerously wounded a child. McDermott and his companions then jumped from the train and escaped.

The authorities have been in constant pursuit of the desparado since that time and last night they succeeded in arresting him in this city. He will be taken back to Corry at once.

Patrons of Industry.

Stryker, Aug. 25.—(Special)—Henry L. Goll, state secretary and chairman of the Patrons of Industry party convention, held in Stryker school hark Saturday, called the meeting to order, introducing the Wauseon band to enliven the people, and then the Stryker Glee club with the song America. Mr. F. D. Danaken, of Cecil, next talked to about 500 people upon the inequality of the legislative enactments by representatives of the democratic and republican parties.

Col. Jesse Harper, of Illinois, spoke two hours in the afternoon to a larger number of men, women and children upon the same topics.

Burglars at Wilmington.

Wilmington, O., Aug. 25.—Burglars entered through the rear of the jewelry store of J. H. Wright & Son, and secured a haul of opera glasses, solid silverware, napkin rings, watches, bracelets, gold pens, etc., amounting in value to over $500. The safe was not disturbed.

MUST WORK FOR LOVE.

No Republican Money for the Negro,

And John M. Langston Refuses to Talk.

He Has Been of Good Service to His Party and Thinks He Should be Paid for It.

Columbus, Aug. 25.—The attitude of the colored voters of the state has alarmed the republican managers and Chairman Hahn of the state executive committee is now industriously engaged in beating the bushes to drum up speakers to address the Afro-Americans.

There is no longer any room to doubt that the colored people of Ohio are not at present in line with the republican party. This fact seriously embarrasses Major McKinley and the other party leaders in their canvass. The old cry that the republican party freed the slaves no longer goes. The majority of the colored voters in the state to-day are young men, born since slavery time, and have but little personal knowledge of those days.

They are not looking to the past. While they, as a matter of course are interested in the history of slavery and the occurrences that led to striking the shackles from the millions of negroes of the south, they recognize that this was not alone due to the republicans. While the party made this a prominent feature in its early existence, the intelligent colored people of the present day and generation fully realize that had it not been for the hundreds and thousands of democratic soldiers who enlisted in the service and marched bravely to the front the success of the union arms would have been impossible.

This being the position of the colored men as they become more intelligent through education, they are not willing to entirely overlook the fact. They realize that many of the greatest officers in the union army were adherents of the democratic faith, while thousands upon thousands of stanch democrats marched in the ranks and did valiant service on the field of battle.

Although they have blindly followed the republican cry about freeing the slaves in the past, they are no longer willing to continue in this course without some assurance for the future.

They feel that, as a race, the colored voters of Ohio, and for that matter the whole country, have more than paid the debt they owe to the republican party. For twenty years or more they have voted almost solidly with the republicans without receiving any special recognition or reward.

This they believe, according to the talk of some of the most intelligent colored men in this city, amply atones for the past. From this time on, as one of the gentlemen stated to a correspondent today, they propose to look to the future.

The situation in this regard is serious and alarming to the republicans and numerous letters have gone out from the state executive committee in this city to prominent colored men imploring them to come to Ohio to assist in closing up the colored ranks, but notwithstanding the fact that the committee has a surfeit of cool cash with which to carry on he campaign they are, even in this emergency, attempting to discriminate against the colored orators.

They want the speakers and want them bad, but are endeavoring to secure them by offering to pay their expenses. They do not want to put them on a par with the white speakers, who receive ample pay for their time as well as reimbursement for all their expenses. The colored man, they seem to think, is worth only his expenses, and they have in effect commanded the services of several of the prominent colored speakers of the country.

Years ago a command of this kind, coming from the republican bosses, would probably have had the desired effect and brought to Ohio any speaker upon whom requisition was made, but not so in the present instance.

To substantiate this assertion it is only necessary to state that the committee has been in correspondence with the Hon. John M. Langston, ex-member of congress from the Petersburg (Va.) district and the right bower of the once prominent William Mahone of the mother state.

Langston was commanded to appear and render his services for the mere trifle of expenses. The ex-congressman has been in public life long enough to gather a point or two in connection with campaign speeches, and knowing full well that the republican committees are paying fancy salaries to the white speakers in Ohio, he flatly declined to obey. He replied to Chairman Hahn, calling the attention of that gentleman to the fact that he (Langston) is just now out of office and could not afford to enter the canvass unless the committee put up a good round salary.

The matter has not yet been closed, as the republicans hate to yield a point to the colored people, and therefore hesitate about putting them on a par with the white speakers by paying a like compensation for their services. Mr. Langston is determined that in this instance it must be pay or no work and he persistently declines to accept the invitation.

AFFAIRS IN FINDLAY.

Uncle Charles Gordan Down With Paralysis.

A Snake Story—New Pipe Line and Matters of General Interest.

Findlay, Aug. 25.—(Special)—It is said parties are negotiating for the purchase of the weekly Union to convert it into a Sunday paper.

New Gas Line.

The gas trustees at their regular meeting on Wednesday evening will open the bids for the pipe for the new 12-inch line to be laid out into the north field. The estimated cost is $75,000. The growth of the city made this step necessary. The manufacturers are working in perfect harmony with the trustees for the building of the line. The mains for the two past winters have been inadequate to supply the demand.

A Snake Story.

James Nye and Robert Durbin, while out hunting near McComb a day or two ago, shot and killed a huge black snake, which measured fourteen feet in length. This is the largest snake killed in this locality for one time past.

Struck with Paralysis.

Uncle Charles Gordan, probably the oldest man in this county, being about 91 years old, was stricken down with paralysis on Main street yesterday, while en route to the C., H. & D. depot. On account of his age, his recovery is extremely doubtful. He was a dyed in the wool democrat and had several boys who wore the blue during the war. He is well known throughout the county.

To Discuss the Jews.

London, Aug. 25.—The Standards' St. Petersburg correspondent says that the United States Minister, Charles Emory Smith, acting under instructions from Washington, has requested an interview with the minister of the interior to discuss the question of the emigration of Russian Jews to America.

Sending His Gold Away.

London, Aug. 25.—A dispatch to the Times from Buenos Ayres confirms the information from Lisbon published Saturday that President Balmaceda, of Chili, sent $1,600,000 in silver to Montevideo for shipment to Europe, through the good offices of the captain of the British warship Espiegle.

VALUABLE EXHIBITS.

The Bishop of Panama Will Donate Them.

New York, Aug. 25.—The Panama Star and Herald says: The very Rev. Dr. Peralta, bishop of Panama, has tendered for exhibition at the world's fair his very remarkable historical and ethnological collection, which has been for some years in a museum connected with the bishop's palace. It is one of the most superb collections of private antiquities in the world, including ancient gold and silver ornaments; vessels and objects of worship exhumed from the tombs of the extinct race that once inhabited Colombia; rare vases; pottery and earthenware; rare ornaments; vestments and missals that date back to the time of the conquest; papers and various other articles of historical interest. The offer has been accepted and the collection will be shown at Chicago.

Lieut. H. R. Esley, the special commissioner for the world's fair in Colombia, writes that a typical orchestra from that country, consisting of 10 musicians, playing three native instruments, which are unlike those of any other people, has been organized. It will appear at Chicago during the exposition, in connection with the exhibit from the republic of Colombia.

FULTON COUNTY DEMOCRATS

The Ticket Named at Wauseon Yesterday.

Dr. J. O. Allen for Representative—Strong Indorsement of Gov. Campbell's Administration.

Wauseon, Aug. 25.—(Special)—When the convention was called to order yesterday afternoon by Chairmain Cately, after the noon recess, the commodious court room was well filled notwithstanding the inclement weather.

The report of the committee on credentials was called for. The report was submitted, no contests were reported.

The committee on rules and permanent organization reported that the usual rules obtained and that the temporary organization be made permanent.

The committee on resolutions submitted the following report:

"We, the democrats of Fulton county in convention assembled, indorse the resolutions adopted at the democratic state convention at Cleveland.

"We pledge our support to the several nominees of this convention.

"We heartily indorse the administration of Gov. James E. Campbell and denounce that of President Harrison and the late billion-dollar congress."

The report was adopted without dissent.

The following central committee was reported: H. W. Vanbuskirk, J. S. Kable, W. I. Isbell, P. J. Lenhart, R. N. Murray, S. J. Hinkle, J. F. Yeager.

Chairman Cately announced that he had received a telegram from Hon. J. A. Baily, democratic candidate for attorney general, stating that owing to very important business he could not be present.

Announcements for the office of representatives were called for, and the name of Dr. J. O. Allen, of Fayette, was presented by C. F. Barber, of Fayette, who stated that the office should seek the man, and that the man ought to be honest and ought to possess ability. His candidate was such a man and would fulfill the duties of the office if elected, and he would come very nearly being elected.

The rules were suspended, on motion of W. G. Bollmeyer, and Dr. Allen was declared the nominee amid much enthusiasm.

For treasurer, the name of the chairman, Judge Cately, was announced, but that gentleman stated that he could not possibly accept the nomination owing to his age.

The names of F. A. Brown and Peter Schud were announced, but both declined. Dr. G. P. Campbell also declined the honor. James Kable was announced, but like the others would not stand fire.

Nomination of treasurer was then passed for the time.

For prosecuting attorney Perry J. Chase was nominated by acclamation.

For commissioner, D. M. Murray, of York township, was named.

Dr. Wilkins announced the name of Henry B. Mann, also of York. Mr. Mann withdrew his name in Mr. Murray's favor.

The rules were suspended and Murray was nominated by acclamation.

For infirmary director the name of John Shelling was announced and he was nominated by acclamation.

For treasurer, Samuel Edgar, of Royalton, was nominated by acclamation.

After some other business pertaining to the township committee the convention adjourned.

DEATH OF A HERMIT.

She Dwelt in Misery and Squalor.

Living Near a Town She Had Not Entered It for Twenty-Six Years.

Newark, O., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Emory Tyer died at her home south of this city Sunday at an early hour. She was quite eccentric and was, in fact, a veritable hermit, having lived almost within the city limits and not having stirred from her miserable abode for 26 years.

During her recent illness she told her guardian, Mr. C. B. Pitzer, that the last time she was in the city was when the soldiers of the late war were returning from the front. She was the widow of the late Emory Tyer, who died about four years ago and while she had been cradled in the lap of luxury of wealthy parentage in the city of Boston, Mass., her husband treated her brutally and she became a recluse long before his death.

For seven years she has not rested on a bed. She was troubled with asthma and feared she would die if she went to sleep in a recumbent position. During that time she used a chair and her face was a mass of scars occasioned by falling on the stove while asleep.

Possessed of considerable property, she entered into a contract with her guardian, an influential farmer near by, and by the terms of it he was to keep a roof over her head, pay the taxes, provide for her wants and keep her out of the poorhouse and above charity.

Same upon most subjects and with an excellent education, she has steadily refused for years to clothe herself, being content with a few tattered rags and an old rubber overcoat, and in the house at the time of her death was a dress which she had worn 30 years ago and never since.

Of furniture her cottage had almost none, but among her effects was a toy bureau, the property of her mother more than a hundred years ago. She called it her household "god" and would have parted with her life more easily than with it, and it was only after she was dead that it was found to contain about $17 in money, some seeds and other small articles and trinkets only treasured by a child. It was the last and only link which to her in her miserable existence, bound her to the happy past long gone by.

Mr. Pitzer has religiously carried out his part of the contract and at one time tried to induce her to remove to a comfortable cottage which he had constructed near her own home, but she refused, saying that she would never be removed from her "shanty," except she went heels first.

At one time he purchased a comfortable bed, but she refused to let it be brought into her cabin and for a time it stood in the woodpile. This eccentric woman had no relatives by blood in this locality and only two by affinity, George Dixon, a half nephew, and Mrs. Thomas Kilworth, a half sister to her husband.

The remains were given a Christian burial. The services were conducted by Rev. E. J. Jones, of this city, at Hog Run chapel, south of the city, and the body consigned to the tomb in the Grove family burying ground.

Disabled at Sea.

New York, Aug. 25.—The steamer Servia from Liverpool, report having sighted on Friday, the steamer Suevia from Hamburg for New York disabled, having lost three blades of her propeller.

AMONG THE PEOPLE.

A Talk With Residents of Fulton County.

Samuel Carpenter Discusses Politics.

Why He Is a Democrat and Why He Believes the Tariff Bars Should Be Thrown Down.

Wauseon, Aug. 25.—(Special)—One of the oldest of staunch democrats in the state of Ohio, is Samuel Carpenter, of Lyon, who has been a resident of Fulton county for 49 years.

Mr. Carpenter is very old and becoming infirm, but his democracy is of the kind which stands the test of years.

Of late he has been occupied in the commendable but rather eccentric and unremunerative task of making hickory canes which he has presented to nearly all the leading democrats of the country.

He planted a grove of hickories years ago and makes these democratic walking sticks from the young growth.

He has sent canes to Grover Cleveland, Gov. Campbell, Hon. A. G. Thurman, and many other democrats of national renown and is now making one for Senator Palmer of Illinois.

Mr. Carpenter was at the convention yesterday and enjoyed the making of a democratic ticket as much as he did forty years ago.

In conversation with a BEE he said:

"I have been in Fulton county nearly half a century, and have never been anything but a democrat and never will be while I live. I am a democrat because I believe the principles of that party are the only ones which will fit a republic like ours, and which best suit the people. The party has made mistakes but at all times it is nearest the people.

"I want to see every dollar's worth of property taxed at its true value and all tariffs wiped out of existence. This country has no use for tariffs and the sooner we get rid of them the sooner will be attained the highest degree of prosperity."

"What about protection, Mr. Carpenter?"

"Protection? Why, I am the freest trader in all these United States and have been all my life. Who does protection protect? Nobody but the millionaires and the monopolists. What do I want with protection? I can protect myself against anybody in the world, and what is true of me individually is also true of the nation.

"Let us throw down the bars, tear down the custom houses and seek a wide market, as wide as the world is wide, for our products. The country is capable of producing much more than we can consume here, and we need a market for it."

Mr. Carpenter is a very interesting talker and is one of the best posted men in the country on political topics. He thinks Campbell will be elected and that democracy will win all over the country next year.

Judge Handy's Opinion.

Another well posted man on political as well as all other topics is Judge W. H. Handy, of Wauseon.

At the conclusion of the work of the convention yesterday he made a speech which was brief that right to the point. He gave L. W. Brown's speech of a few days ago a careful analysis, and showed that his argument was against the high tariff doctrine.

Said the judge to a BEE:

"Brown tells the people that agricultural implements, stockings, muslin and calico is much dearer in England than in America. If this is true, then why do the protectionists object to foreign goods being imported on the ground that the price of our goods will be reduced in price. Such argument is not good from his side of the fence, and indicates that the consul got slightly mixed in his points."

"What will the people's party do in Fulton county, judge?"

"I do not think it will do much. The Patrons of Industry, however, which has a number of lodges in the county, will make some trouble for somebody. They will more than likely nominate a county ticket, and may develop much more strength than is popularly believed."

"How are Fulton county farmers on the tariff?"

"Farmers are reading and investigating the question more thoroughly than they have ever done before. I am pretty certain that were you to go through Fulton county and tap the farmers on the shoulder that nine out of ten, throwing their party prejudices aside, would say they did not believe that protection benefited the farmers.

"The principle of protection, in my opinion, has seen its best days. There may, of course, be many arguments in favor of it, but there are many and more substantial ones on the other side. People are tired of being taxed to make particular class rich, and will not stand it much longer. There is no market for them except the market of the world and that ought to be thrown open to them and to the fullest extent."

Campbell a Democrat.

Dr. G. P. Campbell, of Tedrow, attended the convention yesterday and is as enthusiastic as ever for the cause of democracy and decent government. Since his retirement from the asylum board the doctor has not been heard from to a great extent, but he is busily engaged in attending to his large practice, and says he has no time for politics.

There are few men in Fulton county who are better informed than Dr. Campbell, and when asked what he thought of the result of the coming campaign, replied unhesitatingly that he was certain that the cause of democracy would win before the people.

"Gov. Campbell is a strong campaigner," said he, "and if he keeps his health will make things very interesting for Major McKinley. Several times I have been asked whether I intended to support the governor. The thing is rather a nuisance to me, and I wish you would say in the BEE that I will give Gov. Campbell my most ardent support.

"Whatever trouble I had with him is past and what I have to say of him personally is none of anybody's business, but I am a democrat and never go back on a ticket. Therefore I shall not only vote for the governor, but I shall do all in my power to secure other votes for him and the entire ticket."

"Dr. Campbell, what is your opinion as to the strength of the People's party in Fulton county?"

"That is a difficult question to figure on with any degree of certainty. Were it not for the good crop I would be inclined to think it would receive a heavy vote, but as it is I cannot tell. The Patrons of Industry, or the People's party will hold a convention soon, but the Farmers' Alliance people will have nothing to do with them. They will vote as they please when they go to the polls. I think the ticket nominated by the democrats is on of the very best that could have been named and will command the support of every democrat in Fulton county."

"There is an element in the politics of Fulton county which is not found in many counties of the state, and that is a number of lodges of Patrons of Industry in good working order. The grange in most places is rataer in bad shape, but in this county owing to the efforts of Col. Brigham and others, it has been maintained. These lodges it is thought will bolt the regular party tickets this fall and if they do, there will be plenty of music along the line and the track of the democratic train will be geared as it will be vigorously applied to drive the re-calcitrants into line. The farmers have been duped and robbed and swindled so long by the high tariff policy of the republican party that it is morally certain, they will seek relief in some way, and will let the republican party go out and nibble grass like Nebuchadnezzar did, by way of doing penance for its record of unkept pledges, and high-handed highwaymanlike methods of taxation.

Union Men Out.

Haverhill, Mass., Aug. 25.—Owing to their inability to arrange a new price-list, Messrs. Chisk, shoe manufacturers, have discharged all their international union help.

The old list expired July 1, since which time unsuccessful efforts have been made to fix upon a new one.

The firm will not grant the advance asked for by the workmen but are willing to pay the old prices.

To this President Carnot replied: "I beg your majesty to accept my sincere thanks for the gracious reception you were good enough to accord to Admiral Gervais and his officers, and also for the sentiments expressed in regard to the French fleet."

Ha! Ha! Ha!

Washington, Aug. 25.—The following circular was to-day issued at the treasury department:

Public notice is hereby given that the United States assistant treasurer at New York has been authorized to pay on presentation at his office on and after September 2, 1891, with interest to maturity, the coupon bonds of the 4½ per cent. loan called for redemption on that date by the circular of June 2, 1891.

CHARLES FOSTER, Secretary.

So far $20,850,000 have been presented for extension. The total issue is $51,000,000.

Victory for Emin Pasha.

Brussels, Aug. 25.—A letter from Stanley Falls states that at the time of its writing, Emin Pasha was resting at Wadelai, after having inflicted thorough defeat upon the dervishes. He had captured 600 tusks of ivory and a quantity of ammunition, arms and stores of many descriptions, and has reoccupied all the old stations in the equatorial province, and seems to have completely cowed the dervishes.

POLITICS IN PUTNAM.

A Busy Bee Gathers in the Honey.

What the People of Ottawa Think.

Judge Moore Has Something Interesting to Say on Matters Just Now Before the Public.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—(Special)—The political pot in Putnam county is not boiling to any great extent, although the situation since the nomination of the people's ticket is warming up.

The indorsement of Senator Sutton at the recent convention was a well-deserved compliment, but may mean nothing more, as Mr. Sutton has given it out that he is not and will not be a candidate for re-election.

The democrats have but little to fear and will pile up the customary democratic majority this fall.

Judge J. Moore, one of the representative democrats of the county, was seen by a BEE to-day and had quite a talk with him on the political situation generally.

"Everything is lovely with us," he said. "Our county ticket is a strong one. There may be somewhat of a fight on Williamson for sheriff, but I don't think it will amount to much. He has made one of the best and most efficient sheriffs this county has ever had, and I think he should and will be re-elected."

"How strong is the people's party in this county, judge?"

"Well, it is hard to tell, but I don't think it will amount to much. It started out with a few meetings not very well attended, but it seems to be dwindling away."

"Which party is it drawing its support from most?"

"Oh, both sides; but I think more largely from the republicans in proportion to the vote cast."

Geo. D. Kinder, editor of the Sentinel, expressed similar opinions.

"The people's party," he said, "don't seem to be in it to any great extent. Our candidate for sheriff, Williamson, is about the only man on our ticket that there is any great opposition to, and they can't beat him."

"Will Senator Sutton be up for re-election?"

"I don't know. He has said nothing to me on the subject, but he has told others that he would not run again."

Mr. Kinder is one of the old veterans in the democratic camp, and is a level-headed hustler.

Mayor Thos. Sweeny did not see how the republicans could expect a show. "It was true," he said, "that the democrats had been euchred out of two offices at the last election, but the democrats proposed that this should not happen again."

Representative M. A. McClure was seen for a moment.

"The county is all right," he said enthusiastically, "and the state is all right."

"Any opposition to Campbell?"

"None that I hear of. Our county is solid for him, and as far as I can learn there is not a dissentient democrat in the entire county."

"How is the Farmers' alliance?"

"Doing very little in this county, although it looked in the beginning as if they were going to sweep everything, and I don't know but they are much stronger than they appear."

Mr. McClure, who is up for re-election, is one of the best democrats in the county, and has made one of the best representatives Putnam has ever had.

The old faction fight, which has kept the democracy of Putnam county divided for years, is not on this time, and the prospects are therefore so much the more flattering.

The campaign proper will open in Putnam about the first of September, and a grand rally it is understood will be held on the 15th.

Governor Campbell Preparing for the Fight.

He Will Make a Most Vigorous Campaign.

The Sherman-Foraker Fight Grows Hotter With Each Day—General Ohio Politics.

Columbus, Aug. 25.—(Special)—It is with glee that the republican press, and small fry politicians, are gloating over the illness of Gov. Campbell, and with laughter compare it with the sickness of ex-Gov. Hoadly in 1885, when he was defeated by Foraker for his second term.

While this is not Christianity or carrying out the teachings of the Bible, they can rest assured that after the first of September Governor Campbell, assisted by the sound principles of democracy and the good luck that has always surrounded him, and his honest and courageous course, will fill all appointments made by the democratic state executive committee.

He will leave to-morrow, accompanied by his wife, for Spring Lake, where he will spend one week, and then return to enter a conflict, the equal of which has never been known in Ohio.

All honest men, irrespective of their political affiliations, will rally around the standard. "The Campbells are Coming," and when the vote is counted in November, it will be seen that the Australian ballot law and honest administration of state affairs has been indorsed by the voters of the Buckeye state, notwithstanding that Mr. Hahn and his tin plate factory on East State street in this city have been manufacturing all kinds of falsehoods, the father of which is supposed to reside in Mansfield.

Reference is not made to Sherman, who is fighting for his political life in the United States senate, but to the wily Cappeller, who was removed from the office of railroad commissioner.

Hahn is leaving no stone unturned in furnishing boiler plate matter to the republican press of Ohio on the tariff question, and has sent out thousands of circulars asking the committees if they do not want tariff and anti-silver coinage literature, especially the speech delivered by McKinley at Niles on last Saturday.

State Executive Committee.

With the gallant, genial Col. James E. Neal at the head of the democratic state executive committee, the democrats and the people opposed to the tariff robbers will have a leader who will keep them posted on all matters that will be of interest and how they should vote to retire from office all the aristocrats that have made their millions by robbing the people by means of the high protective robbery scheme.

He will be ably assisted as chairman by Hon. L. C. Cole, of Wood county, whom he has selected as secretary of the committee.

Mr. Cole formerly resided in Stark county and is familiar with every precinct in the county and is acquainted with all the prominent workers of both sides, which knowledge will very materially aid him in his work and be of great advantage to the other members of the committee.

Col. Neal has not yet selected a treasurer for the committee, but it is understood that Theodore Leonard, of this city, a prominent Irishman, will hold the purse strings. In the selection of Mr. Leonard, Col. Neal will fill a void never before looked after by the state central committee or the chairman of the state executive committee. No man stands higher in the estimation of the Irish Catholics than does Mr. Leonard.

He is himself a wealthy man, and two years ago he was a candidate for state treasurer, but sooner than split the delegation from Franklin county between Gov. Campbell and Hon. Lawrence T. Neal, he withdrew in favor of the candidacy of the present chief executive.

The plan, route and speakers for the coming campaign will, in a very few days, be announced, and Mr. Neal, who, from the time he opens the committee rooms until the vote is counted in November, will constantly be on hand, and it is his and Mr. Cole's wish that every democrat in Ohio desiring information shall address the committee and they will see that they receive an immediate response to any information they seek.

Sherman-Foraker Fight

The republicans of this city and county held their primaries on last Saturday evening. In some of the wards hardly a corporal's guard attended the primaries; or, in other words, not over 10 per cent. of the republicans of this county cast their votes for delegates to the county convention. This small vote can be accounted for in but one way.

While Foraker was a resident of this city for four years, the better and more conservative element of the republicans were opposed to his machine politics and were in favor of the selection of men as candidates for representative and senator who favor the return of Sherman to the United States senate.

Charlie Kurtz looked after the interests of Foraker, while J. E. Donnelson looked after Sherman's interests.

From present indications it is more than probable that the Sherman men will nominate the candidates and try to trade every other office on the county ticket for votes for members of both branches of the legislature.

It has been the custom of Foraker, when coming to this city, to always have a few of his henchmen know of the fact, so that a crowd could meet him at the hotel, but of late instead of stopping at the Neil, in front of the capitol, he slips into town and registers at the new Chittenden hotel up town, where his henchmen call upon him, and after a few hours' consultation he leaves for other parts of the state.

If he is not openly working for the United States senatorship and the nomination of members for the legislature who will vote for him, his machine, under the charge of Cox, Kurtz and Cappeller, are manipulating everything in sight, so that when the key is turned in the caucus the legislators will vote for Foraker.

While they are sly in their movements, the friends of Sherman are not asleep, and it is said are making overtures to some of the Alliance men in the close counties.

Foraker, as everybody has been informed, was born in Highland county, and it is expected and even conceded by republicans, that that county will either elect an Alliance or democratic representative.

A member of the third party in this city said to your correspondent that they would make a warm contest in all of the close counties and wherever the farmers had an organization able men would be sent to instruct the farmers upon the tariff and why neither John Sherman nor Benny Foraker should be sent to the United States senate. He further said that it was more than probable that with the members that his party would have in both branches of the legislature that it would be able to control the election of United States senator, in which event John Seitz, of Seneca county, would be the senatorial candidate of the alliance. He also said that a large number of the alliance delegates to the Springfield convention favored the nomination or indorsement of James E. Campbell, owing to his honest and fearless administration; or, in other words, they admired the man because he had the courage to fight corruption in his own party, which was more than could be said of Sherman or Foraker.

Her Heart Failed Her.

Boston, Aug. 25.—Caroline Prescott Wood, wife of Congressman-elect Sherman Hoar, of Waltham, died suddenly this morning of heart trouble. She had been seriously ill for a week or more, but immediate danger was not considered possible. Her age was 30 years. She leaves two children.

JUST TEN DAYS MORE.

Drs. Copeland and Buffett will Continue the Five-Dollar Treatment for Catarrh—Their Reasons.

To complete the term of summer treatment for catarrh and kindred diseases Drs. Copeland and Buffett have extended their $5 rate for medicine and treatment until September 1. As has been stated the summer is the most favorable season of the year for the treatment and cure of catarrhal troubles. It was intended that all desiring it should have an opportunity of placing themselves under treatment at this favorable season and availing themselves of this merely nominal rate. A large number have called and written expressing themselves in this way:

"Doctor, I wanted to take advantage of the $5 rate, but was unable to do so during July. Won't you please me on record now and let me begin treatment in August?"

In extending the $5 rate to all to Sept. 1st, Drs. Copeland and Buffett answer these requests without rendering themselves liable to the charge of favoring certain patients, and give all ample and abundant time and opportunity. All patients applying for treatment before Sept. 1, will be treated for $5 a month and all medicines furnished free, each month's treatment, including medicine, to cost $5 UNTIL CURED.

"GIVEN UP TO DIE"

The Doctors Said He Had Consumption and Could do Nothing for Him.

He Calls Upon Drs. Copeland and Buffett and Is Now a Well Man.

"Yes, given up to die, after having exhausted the science and skill of some half dozen doctors, and used every means in my power to find relief. Physicians all with one voice said that I had consumption and that they could do nothing for me except to temporarily relieve my pain and ease my last days. Not a very bright outlook, was it?"

The speaker was a well-known gentlemen of this city, Mr. James Young, of 1325 Nevada street, whose picture is here given.

MR. JAMES YOUNG, 1325 NEVADA STREET.

"My trouble first began," continued Mr. Young, "with a severe attack of 'la grippe,' which settled on my lungs, and in one week I lost over six pounds. My lungs, after a short time, began to feel as though they were raw, and when I would cough there seemed to be a complete breaking down of tissue. After one of these severe coughing spells I would have to go and lay down in order to regain my strength.

I was always tired, especially in the mornings; sharp shooting pains would take me in the chest, extending to the shoulder blades. I had no appetite, and I began to look like a fit subject for the grave. My friends would often say: 'Well, poor fellow, he has consumption and his days are few.'

Eight months ago I had to quit work, because I could get no sleep—I would cough continually during the night, and had begun to think that my friends were really right; I would not be long for this world.

Although in this terrible condition, it was hard to give up, and while reading the paper one day I was attracted by the wonderful cures of Drs. Copeland and Buffett, and I concluded to consult them; and as long as I live I will continue to bless the day I met them.

They told me not to be discouraged, but to do just as they told me and I would soon be myself again.

I have now been treating for two months and I am in as good health as ever I was. It is certainly wonderful, and I cannot say enough in praise of the doctors. I now have a good appetite, do not feel tired, cough gone, and although 51 years of age, I feel as young as I did ten years ago; and as you see me now I am a pretty lively man to be "given up to die."

Mr. Young lives, as stated above, at 1325 Nevada street, East Toledo, where he will, in person or by letter, gladly verify his statement, which was given by his own free will.

From Representative Residents.

Mr. Wm. H. Dana, a marine engineer, residing at 816 Collingwood ave., says:

They have, beyond all doubt, placed me in better health than I could ever expect, and I heartily recommend them to the public.

Mr. Joseph Coombs, residing at 384 Indiana ave., says:

I cannot say too much in praise of Drs. Copeland and Buffett, for they have certainly saved me from a fate worse than death.

Their Credentials.

As has been said, Dr. W. H. Copeland was president of his class at Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York, where he graduated, the most famous institution of the kind in the country. His diploma bears the written indorsement of the medical authorities of New York, of the deans of prominent medical colleges of Pennsylvania. Dr. Buffett's credentials are no less abundant and unqualified. He also is formerly indorsed by Bellevue Hospital Medical College of New York and by the secretaries of various county and state medical societies. Both gentlemen after thorough experience and practice have devoted their time to the practice of their specialties, with what success the columns of the daily papers show.

Rousing Senatorial Convention To-day.

Campbell's Name Cheered to the Echo.

Sonerant and Stewart Make a Sturdy Battle for the Honors.

Oak Harbor, Aug. 25.—(Special)—It's safe to assert that there were more democrats in Oak Harbor to-day than there has been since the congressional convention which nominated Frank Hurd met here many years ago.

The town was crowded, and although every man was busily engaged in pulling strings for his particular candidate, all boisterousness was, as if by common consent, dispensed with.

The Stewart delegations arrived on the early trains and were on the grounds first. Red badges, worn by the followers of the Norwalk man, were conspicuous everywhere, and were judgment to be passed on the result from this fact alone, one would have thought Stewart would have no opposition.

Later in the forenoon the Sonerant legions began to arrive and the fight began in earnest.

It would be the height of folly to disguise the fact that the contest here to-day will perhaps be attended with results which will not be in the best interest of the democracy of this senatorial district.

The opposition to Senator Sonerant's renomination is very active. It comes principally from county officers over the district who are opposed to his efforts in favor of the bill fixing salaries for county officers.

The nomination belonged to him by the usual courtesy, but Mr. Stewart claims that as the district only had one senator to elect this year, any body had a right to contend for the nomination.

The Stewart men were confident early this morning that their man would be nominated. The Huron delegates caucussed last night and resolved to give Stewart the solid delegation, thus leaving Vail out in the cold.

"I am reasonably certain that I will be nominated," said Mr. Stewart to the Bee at 10 o'clock. He claimed on the first ballot 29 votes from Huron county, 5 from Erie, 22 from Sandusky and 11 from Ottawa.

Sonerant was equally confident. He claimed that Donahue would only receive five votes from Erie county, and that he would have Ottawa county practically solid.

Donahue, he said, did not expect a large vote, and was brought out only for the purpose of getting a portion of Sonerant's friends in Erie county estranged from him.

The fight is to be regretted who ever is nominated. Judging from the warmth of the contest, feelings will be roused which will not be conducive to harmony hereafter. Petty jealousy among the leading democrats of the 31st senatorial district has resulted in this fight and about the only consoling thing in sight is that the candidates are all democrats and personally good men.

The convention was called to order at 11 o'clock by C. I. York, of Ottawa county, chairman of the democratic senatorial committee. He announced that Byron R. Dudrow, of Sandusky county, had been selected as temporary chairman, and Geo. H. Withey, of Ottawa, as temporary secretary.

Mr. Dudrow, on taking the chair, thanked the convention for the honor and said that the large attendance of democrats demonstrated that the people were awake to the exigencies of the hour.

"There will be no harsh feeling on the part of any man because of the result of the convention, whatever that may be. There will be no soreness. This convention is composed of democrats, and in this hour there is no time for quarrelling. The democats of Ohio are out for a victory this year, and with such candidates as James E. Campbell it is scarcely possible for democrats to fail."

Mention of Governor Campbell's name evoked the wildest burst of enthusiasm, and delegates arose to their feet and cheered.

For the purpose of caucusing the convention they took a recess of 15 minutes.

The following committees were reported from the caucus:

Credentials—C. Holzhauser, Erie; Wm. Habbeler, Ottawa; Chas. Schely, Sandusky; John A. Ryan, Huron.

Permanent organization—Erie, James Douglass; Ottawa, Godfrey Jaeger; Sandusky, B. B. Osmeyer; Huron, J. W. Lee.

Rules—Erie, H. R. Harris; Ottawa, R. Coorty; Sandusky, J. Wagner; Huron, E. G. Husten.

Resolutions—Erie, John Mowrey; Ottawa, C. Rinehart; Sandusky, Jesse Stephens; Huron, E. Culbertson.

Central Committee—Erie, W. H. Herbert; Ottawa, Richard Cooley; Sandusky, Frank O. Farrell; Huron, J. H. Weber.

After the noon adjournment, the committee on credentials reported no contests.

The committee on permanent organization recommended that the temporary organization be made permanent.

The committee on rules reported that the usual rules be observed, and stated that there were 132 votes in the convention, 67 votes bein necessary to a choice.

All reports were adopted.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

"Resolved, By the democracy of the Thirtieth senatorial district, in convention assembled, that we hereby indorse and approve the wise and businesslike administration of Gov. James E. Campbell.

"That we hereby most heartily indorse and approve of the platform adopted by the democratic state convention.

"That we hereby pledge our unanimous support to the nominee of this convention.

"That in the death of Senator Perry M. Adams the democracy of Ohio has lost an honest and able party worker and counsellor, and the state a distinguished citizen, whose loss is irreparable."

The planks mentioning Gov. Campbell and the state platform were received with great applause.

A supplemental report relative to the read. The latter was not considered and county seat war in Ottawa county was the first report was adopted.

Judge George C. Beis, of Erie county, in an eloquent address presented the name of Senator John N. Sonerant, of Erie county.

During the speech Grover Cleveland's name was mentioned. It was the signal for a loud outburst of cheers, which lasted a full minute.

Mr. Beis stated that Senator Sonerant was entitled to a second term and that he had done his work well.

The name of D. G. Donahue was then announced.

The name of Harlan L. Stewart, of Huron, was presented to the convention by W. T. Suydam.

Ottawa county seconded the announcement of Senator Sonerant's name through Squire Lewis, of Genoa.

Godfrey Jaeger seconded the announcement of Harlan L. Stewart.

Frank O'Farrell, of Sandusky county, seconded the announcement of Stewart's name. The first ballot was ordered.

ANOTHER ADA TRAGEDY.

Suicide of a Much Respected Student.

He Left no Word by Which the Cause of the Rash Deed Could Be Conjectured.

Lima, O., Aug. 25.—(Special)—There seems to be no limit to the tragedy mania at Ada.

At 10 o'clock this morning A. G. Weaver, aged 30, of Johnsville, Montgomery county, suicided on the Ada Fair grounds by shooting himself squarely in the forehead.

His body was found soon after but life was extinct.

The suicide has been a student the past two years at Ada Normal university, and was about to graduate in classics and law.

He was considered unusually bright, but has been very despondent all the present term.

He bought the revolver at John Bastable's hardware store last night.

He confided his intentions to no one, and left no word behind explaining his rash deed. His relatives have been notified.

Ended His Suffering.

Salt Lake, Utah, Aug. 25.—A carpenter named Will Sherrill, while out driving yesterday, stopped his buggy in the residence part of the city, and tying his horse to a telegraph pole, shot himself through the heart. The effects of the morphine habit led to the suicide

Pauper Sent Back.

Morrisy Hull, a young man, a German by birth, who has been locked up at the police station several days for safe keeping, was yesterday sent to Monroe by the infirmary authorities. Hull is a pauper and very simple minded, almost an idiot. He is just out of the Detroit house of correction.

Should Be Summarily Dealt With.

Infirmary Superintendent Kirby to-day caused the arrest of John Isenhart for beating his wife. The woman put in an appearance at the office this morning with a two weeks' old baby in her arms, having spent the night in the street. The brute of a husband cruelly beat her and then kicked her and the babe into the street.

W. & L. E. Lake Coal Traffic.

Traffic Manager A. G. Blair, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, said this morning that the lake coal business of the company this season would nearly double that of last. The mines have been opened up to a greater extent, more men have been put to work and facilities so improved that this condition of business is made possible.

The Ashley tax investigation is completed with the exception of the testimony of Gov. Ashley. Mr. Ashley has been in New York for two weeks, and has been confined to his bed with sickness during that time. The hearing was adjourned until to-morrow, when it was expected Mr. Ashley would be able to be present. Mr. C. S. Ashley informed a BEE this morning that his father was quite ill and still confined to his bed.

The Railway Clerks and Moonlight.

The moonlight excursion to be given by the railway clerks next Thursday evening, the 27th, promises to be a very pleasant and enjoyable affair. The "boys" are leaving nothing undone to insure the comfort and pleasure of the friends who attend. The manager of the City of Toledo has kindly granted the use of the main cabin deck for dancing, which privilege is highly appreciated by everyone, and will be even more so when the popular Foresters' band disperses its fine musical selections.

Train Fired Into.

The C., H. & D. train from the west, which arrives here at 4 p. m., was fired into near Troy yesterday, and several people had narrow escapes. Just on the outskirts of that town a man standing beside the track took aim at the chair car with a rifle and fired. The bullet shattered one of the windows, but did not strike anybody. The glass, however, was dashed onto a lady sitting beside the window, and her escape from death was a narrow one. Mr. Fred Kumler, of this city, was also in the car, and sat in a seat directly opposite the window which was smashed. The train did not stop, and the miscreant who fired the shot escaped.

How the Doctor Was Dropped On.

Physicians, as a rule, are seldom caught napping, as was Dr. S. T. Baker. Last evening several frien is dropped in to see him, and kept up jokes and anecdotes until every chair was monopolized, and a salmon supper mysteriously glided onto a center table in the office. This was too much for the genial student of hygiene, who admitted it was true that he had arrived at the blushing age of two score and sixteen year, but thought he was too old to be sold. Seeing his mistake, however, pleasure flowed unrestrained, and amid toasts, song and sentiment an evening of unalloyed pleasure was enjoyed, and still the doctor survives to admit the first genuine surprise of his life.

To Recover for School Lands.

County Auditor Vordtriede began two suits in common pleas court to recover for school lands sold June 16, 1888.

The first petition is against Samuel Curtis and wife to recover $2,742.92.

On the date of sale the plaintiff avers that on the date mentioned lots number 6, 7 and 8 were sold to the defendant for $1,080, $1,200, $1,185 respectively. The lots were sold at terms of one-third down, and the balance in two annual payments. The down payment was made, and the plaintiff alleges that no further payment has been made.

The suit is brought against Joseph Deal and Charles Roose, Jr., to recover $2,337.29 for back payments on lots 3, 4 and 5 of the same property.

The Central Democratic Club.

About thirty members of the Lucas county democratic central club met last evening and sought to further perfect the organization. President Ritchie was in the chair and Mr. Curtis Johnson in his place as secretary. Reports were made as to organization in the different wards. The Seventh will organize on Thursday night and the others will follow shortly. Committee on hall was granted further time. Committee on finances brought up this subject, and various plans were suggested for defraying the expenses. A contribution of $1 from each member was voted, and the subject will be discussed later. The club adjourned to meet next Monday night, at a place to be designated by the hall committee.

Relics of By-Gone Days.

The Toledo Memorial association was today the recipient of some valued war relics through the kindness and generosity of Charles Hanner. These are the relics prescribed: Sixty-three bullets, 2 canteens, 2 brass epaulettes, 4 solid shot, 2 shells, 1 saber, 2 telegraph spigots and an Adams express safe.

The canteens are relics of the battles of Bucama and Rich Mountain. The saber was picked up at the Elk Water Fortification just after a battle.

The safe belonged to a Federal paymaster, but was captured and plundered by Gen. Rosen, at Beverly, Jan. 11, 1865.

The other articles were gathered from other historical points of interest.

Mr. Charles Falo also presented the association with a copy of the Daily Dispatch, published in Richmond, Va., Friday morning, September 26, 1862. One whole page of this issue is devoted to "wanted, substitute, etc." One man advertised a harness, wagon and two negroes for sale.

TRAIN WRECKERS

Two Negroes Caught After a Chase.

They Intended to Plunge the Cars Down the Bank and Then Rob Them.

Memphis, Aug. 25.—A daring attempt was made to wreck a train on the Illinois Central main line yesterday. Had the north-bound accommodation train been going 10 miles an hour faster there would have been an awful disaster.

About seven miles north of Holly Springs carpenters are repairing a bridge. As the north-bound train came in sight of the bridge the engineer noticed that one rail seemed to be unduly elevated. He quickly applied the air brakes and reversed his engine.

It was well he did. As the engine went on the bridge it was discovered that a piece of iron, known as stirrup among bridge men, had been securely fastened to the rail and could have thrown any engine from the track.

Luckily only the front trucks of the engine left the rails. Word was at once sent along the road, and soon after a posse of men with M. L. Brewer, of Holly Springs at their head, went in pursuit of the perpetrators of the deed.

In the excitement of the narrow escape from being thrown, with his train, from the bridge into the water below, the engineer noticed two negroes sneaking away through the bushes. Suspicion was directed toward them. The posse heard of the negroes being seen in the vicinity, and an accurate description was secured of both.

After a chase of several hours Mr. Brewer caught the two negroes. They gave their names as Will Frost and Will McDowell. They were separated by the posse, and each said enough to implicate the other. They were then confronted and their captor told each what the other had said. They confessed to having done the deed. Frost said McDowell had a large ax which he intended to use for breaking open coaches in case of a wreck. The negroes were taken to Holly Springs and jailed. Both have the reputation of being hard characters.

NIPPED AT THE START.

A Revolt that Did Not Pan Out.

The Government Squelched It With a Loss of Only Seven Lives.

Grenada, Nicaraugua, Aug 25.—A desperate fight occurred here yesterday in which the chief of police and six men were killed and many others wounded. There has been more or less friction in the country for some time and it was feared that a revolutionary movement was on foot.

The government had made all overtures to the opposition which it thought consistent with its dignity and safety, but they had been declined. Then it was decided to take measures which would prevent any possible attempt at rebellion. In pursuance of this policy orders were issued to arrest Gen. Zavala, Anselmo Rivas and Enrique Guzman. This order was executed this morning.

As soon as the men were arrested and before they were got to the prison a number of their partisans got together and made a desperate attempt to rescue them. A volley was fired into the guards, which wounded several of them and killed the chief of police. The guards returned the fire with fatal effect.

The government was fully prepared for just such a situation and reinforcements were immediately sent to the beleagured guards. With the reinforcements short work was made of the friends of the men under arrest and the streets were quickly cleared, not, however, until several interchanges of shots had taken place in which, as above stated, six men were killed outright and fully fifty were more or less injured.

After order had been restored the streets were patrolled by bodies of troops, and to-night all is quiet. Zavala, Rivas, Guzman were sent to Managua in charge of a guard sufficient to render hopeless any possible attempt at rescue An Italian hotel-keeper of this city, who appeared to be one of the ring-leaders in the trouble this morning, has been arrested and accompanies the three first mentioned to Managua. Other arrests are probable. The government has taken every possible precaution, and there is apparently no reason now to fear any attempt to overthrow it.

WEATHER.

Ohio forecast: Stationary temperature, fair weather. Variable winds.

Lower Michigan: Slightly warmer, fair weather. Southerly winds.

Local indications for the next 24 hours from 3 p. m.—Stationary temperature, followed by warmer, fair weather to-morrow. Possible rain to-morrow night. Southwesterly winds.

The storm central Monday morning over Lake Erie, has continued an abnormal movement northward and its southern margin touches the Georgian bay. The storm central over North Dakota at the same time, is not so marked and is central over Minnesota. These two areas of low pressure have joined and cover the Canadian provinces, Lake Superior and Minnesota and a tongue of low pressure extends thence to western Texas. The disturbance that yesterday appeared developing in Florida, still threatens.

A high pressure area has moved from the Atlantic and now joins that which was yesterday over the Mississippi. Another high are is moving from the districts north of Montana. This general increase of barometic pressure promises fair and cool conditions which will probably generally prevail in most districts for the next few days.

Rain continued from Florida to Pennsylvania, over northern New York and Lake Ontario; elsewhere fair weather prevails.

Challe Chase, who has been ill for some time, died to-day. He was well known in and about Toledo.

The following drunks were disposed of in the police court this morning: Larry Conley, costs; Cornelius Quinlin, costs; John O'Neil, $5 bail forfeited; W. H. Moore, costs; Frank Carr, $5 and costs.

ON LOCAL RAILROADS.

Affairs of the Toledo Passenger Committee.

Harvest Excursions from This City—Various Matters of Interest to Railroad Readers.

The Toledo passenger committee is holding a meeting this afternoon at the Boody house. It looks as if trouble was brewing on the horizon of the committee. It seems during the Patriarchs Militant and other meetings and circuses at Toledo and Presque Isle, some of the lines sold tickets with coupons attached for the ride to the island or admittance to the show, while others sold the straight ticket to Toledo. The roads that sold the coupons believe that the roads not selling them had an advantage, inasmuch as the public would think their rates the lowest and flock their way. This is a pretty thin subject to fight about, for the public is not all made up of fools, and the individual members don't care whether they buy their coupons at the start or finish, as long as they've got to pay for it anyway.

Will Make Trouble.

The circular issued by the Central Traffic association stating that the reduction of the Grand Rapids rate to 90 per cent. of the Chicago-New York rate, would not go into effect September 1, has created quite a flurry among the Michigan lines who have made all arrangements for the change. It is feared that there will be trouble.

Harvest Excursion To-day.

The harvest excursion business of the season from Toledo to-day was fairly good but by no means large. The bulk of the business from here was for Dakota points. The next excursions will take place September 15 and 19, when, it is thought, the business will be larger.

The eastern lines do not like the pigishness displayed by those west of the Missouri river that will not make a rate of less than one and one-third fares for the round trip while the eastern lines make the rate one fare for the round trip. It is generally thought that as this traffic tends to settle the west and makes business for the western lines that they should make as low rates as eastern lines.

Three Toledo Roads.

Of the 22 railroads in the United States the July earnings of which showed an excess of $40,000 gain each, three are local roads, the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo, the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City and the Wabash railroads.

Killed on the Lake Shore.

A frightful accident happened on the Lake Shore near the Air Line junction last night that resulted in the death of Anson Wilcox, a switch man employed on the road. He was seated on a box car, when an engine backed down with two other cars to be coupled. When the cars came together the force of the meeting threw the unfortunate man from his seat and he fell under the car which ran over his body, cutting it almost in two. The car was derailed and this was the first the engineer or the fireman knew of the accident. Wilcox was 35 years of age and resided on Heston street. He leaves a wife and three children. Funeral will take place Thursday afternoon from the Heston street Baptist church.

Music hall, where the meetings are to be held, is handsomely decorated with the colors under which the veterans started out to battle 30 years ago, and huge banks and pots of flowers in all parts of the big building load the air with fragrance and lend beauty to the scene.

The preliminary session of the encampment was to have been held this forenoon, but owing to the fact that delegates kept arriving all the time, postponement was agreed upon in order to give all the visitors a chance to participate.

The grand parade will take place Thursday forenoon. To-morrow evening camp fire exercises will be held in Music hall.

FINANCIALLY RUINED.

Two Well Known Citizens Lose Their All.

Local Wholesale and Retail Dealers Caught.

The Thompson-Chute Soap Company Goes to the Wall and Major Bell Steps Into the Institution—Ketcham's Bank Protected.

It develops to-day that the Thompson & Chute Soap company has gone under, with liabilities twice the amount of assets.

None of the creditors, however, will suffer to any great extent, as Major J. B. Bell proposes stepping in and assuming all debts.

The Ketcham National bank, which is involved to the extent of $8,500, is fully secured, and will come out all right.

The failure, if such it may be called, falls heaviest upon the stockholders and directors.

President Hugh Thompson loses his all—$15,000. W. J. Sigerson, who put in $3,000, has been offered $25 for his interest, and a third stockholder, who was salesman for Bell & Co., for years, has lost $2,200, to the amount of which he has his home—all he has in the world—mortgaged.

Will Thompson, manager and director, resigned some days ago and has gone west, where, it is said, he is selling "blue sky." He was married some time since to a young lady from New York state, and it is understood she has returned home temporarily.

Mr. Chute, who seems in no way responsible for the unfortunate state of affairs, is still managing the concern.

Cashier Waring, of Ketcham's National bank, was asked by a Bee this morning regarding the bank's interest. He said it was fully and thoroughly secured.

"Mr. Bell," he said, is a stockholder of our bank and has looked after our interests. You understand Mr. Bell held a mortgage on the institution, and it has been or will be turned over to him."

"The worst of it is," said one of the directors, "that only a month or so ago we went around and got Berdan & Co. and about twenty retail dealers to subscribe for stock. If I had known the true state of affairs I would have cut off my hand before I would have asked one man—some of them personal friends remember—to subscribe a cent."

It is an unfortunate affair all around, but no blame can be attached to the directors, who, in the first place, are the worst sufferers, and in the second were in total ignorance of the financial condition of the firm.

BOUND FOR VERMONT.

The Presidential Junket Resumed.

Cheered Along the Way as He Journeys to the North Once More.

Saratoga, Aug 25.—The president left at 8:30 this morning by the Delaware & Hudson railroad for Whitehall where he begins his tour of the state of Vermont. The president was accompanied to the station by Mr. Woolworth of the Grand Union hotel and Mr. Halford. There was no demonstration and only a small crowd at the station, where Secretary Proctor met the president. The train is one of the most beautiful ever put together.

Whitehall, N. Y., Aug. 25.—When the president's train left Saratoga the party in the president's car was composed of the president, Secretary Proctor, Second Vice President E. C. Smith of the Central Vermont railroad, Private Secretary Halford, the president's stenographer, E. F. Tibbett, and correspondents of the three press associations, J. B. Townsend of the Press News association, C. W. Tyson of the Associated Press and George Grantham Bain of the United Press.

The train arrangements were in charge of C. D. Hammond, the superintendent of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, who accompanied the party. The president put on his little soft felt traveling cap when the train left Saratoga and sat down with the morning paper and a cigar. He did not have much time for reading, however, for at 8:50 the train pulled up at the Fort Edward station, where a crowd of about 150 people were waiting for it. They came running helter-skelter down the platform and crowded about the end of the president's car. The president came out on the platform and shook hands with ex-Representative Burleigh, Major John Dwyer and Gen. J. C. Rogers, of Sandy Hill, who join the party as far as Whitehall. The president thanked the assemblage for the morning greeting, but made no speech. The run to Whitehall was made in quick time, and the train reached this station at 9:20 o'clock.

There was a big crowd in the railroad yards, composed in great part of members of the Washington county Veteran's association who were on their way to Dresden to attend a reun on. As the train pulled up the band struck up "Hail to the Chief." At the conclusion of the music the president came out on the platform and Mr. Burleigh introduced him. He was greeted with three rousing cheers.

President Harrison's reflection that he can have the solid Vermont vote in the 1892 convention is not half as comforting as it would be if he had not heard from Pennsylvania.

The German paper which predicted that an export duty on grain would be immediately levied in this country is respectfully informed that the constitution forbids it. That is one way of raising revenue that is beyond the reach of even McKinleyites.

When the national commission and the local board of world's fair managers get their fight well going the funny paragraphers will please pay it all the attention they lately bestowed upon the Phebe Couzins' fracas. Sauce for goose is sauce for gander.

The nomination of Dr. J. O. Allen, of Fayette, for representative by the democrats of Fulton county is creditable to the party and to the county. He is an able gentleman and would make a splendid representative. It is gratifying to say that his chances of election are excellent.

Quay is shouting "Tariff" to cover up his own misdoings, and his opponents within the republican party are shouting "Reform," in a vain effort to be rid of him. Together the cry is "Tariff reform," and that's the way it will work in Pennsylvania, this republican quarrel, if it is kept up. When political rogues fall out, the honest people get their dues.

The republican editors of Ohio met in Columbus yesterday and adopted a "policy." They resolved that inasmuch as the people of Ohio are opposed to high taxes, therefore the tariff issue shall be dodged. As a substitute the discussion of the coinage question will occupy the time of the boys of the republican press. Mr. McKinley must depend upon the fat fryers of the east to make his campaign.

The International Socialist Workmen's congress decided not to convene in Chicago in 1893, as the delegates could not afford to pay their fare to this country. This is a good note for the world's fair. Such mouthings as have been indulged in at Brussels are not agreeable to American workingmen. The labor congress of 1893, in connection with the world's fair, will be a very different gathering, under altogether different auspices.

Governor Fifer of Illinois may have made a good private in service but he has made a very poor chief executive of a commonwealth. It is his friends who find fault with him, and their charge is that he has used the machine so awkwardly as practically to disrupt his party. Those best acquainted with the inside workings of politics in Illinois are the ones who forbode that the state will be counted in the democratic ranks in 1892.

In the death of Postmaster-General Raikes of England that country has lost a most devoted servant. In the main his administration of England's postal affairs has been able, although his attempt to destroy the business of parcel deliveries by private firms awakened a good deal of ridicule. In this he was, however, not so far from the policy of some of his colleagues. The trend of legislation in England is decidedly toward state socialism.

Does Chief O'Dwyer tread upon the toes of any Blade people that they should turn their mud battery on him? The mayor, whom the Blade supported for office, and who made such a boastful spectacle of himself just after election, can close the saloons on Sunday, or raise a lively row. But it is not the closing of the saloons the Blade desires. O'Dwyer is the object of attack because he is supposed to be a democrat. The police department has been well conducted by the present chief, and it is well enough to understand the animus of the senseless attacks of the alleged prohibition organ.

Commissioner Wright, of the National Labor bureau, has been gathering some statistics relative to cost of production in this country that go to show the higher the cost of material is the smaller is the wage paid labor. For instance, pig iron material in the south costs $8.41, and for the labor in its manufacture $2.34 is paid, making the total cost of the iron $10.75. In Ohio and Pennsylvania the raw material costs $11.73; only $2.21 is paid for its manufacture, and its total cost is $13.94. In other words, the cheaper the raw material, the more labor can be paid. This justifies the position of the wicked party that opposes undue taxation of raw material, and again proves that high protection does not protect the laborer.

The glee with which the republican press comments upon the illness of Gov. Campbell has something ghoulish about it. It can, however, harm only the individuals so depraved as to indulge in and enjoy it. From present advices there is every reason to hope and believe the Governor will be able to open his campaign at the appointed time, and to conduct it with his accustomed vigor. Then it will be the turn of the republicans to look sick. While the democrats are getting ready to take the field, the enemy can amuse themselves with reading General Beatty's opinion of McKinley's Niles speech, or with watching the triangle fight of their own great, little leaders.

The New York World is of the opinion "Major McKinley's reputation for candor will not survive many such dishonest and disingenuous speeches as he made on Saturday." The World should know Major McKinley has entered upon a campaign in which he must let such trifles as this stand in the way of success; that he is confronted with an emergency to which he must sacrifice a reputation which his political opponents would cheerfully leave him, did he not voluntarily forego it. He cannot honestly defend his own doctrines, and he must, of course, have recourse to disingenuous misrepresentations of these doctrines by which he stands or falls. Major McKinley can not be honest and be successful in this campaign. He drops the substance of a good reputation and grasps at the shadow of gubernatorial honors. Doubtless the World knows the rest of the fable.

In the current number of the North American Review C. P. Huntingtn, president of the Southern Pacific railway, argues for the consolidations of all trunk lines under one general management. Mr. Huntington thoroughly understands the railroad business, and what he says of the advantages that might accrue under a central and capable management is no doubt true. But it may as well be frankly stated that the American people will never confide such great interests and so much power to any one corporation. They have no trust in "trusts," no belief that concentration of power and wealth and wealth-producing opportunities in the control of a few operates to the advantage of the many. If ever the transcontinental railroads of this country are operated under one management, that corporation will be the government. Mr. Huntington's reasoning is that of a nationalist, only that the power he would vest in a corporation they insist the government shall exercise for all the people. Those who are opposed to the paternal form of government the nationalists advocate insist that a republican government shall not exercise unnecessary functions, and that it would not be for the good of the people in any way that it should. But these defenders of the doctrines of true democracy would be quickly arrayed against the consummation of Mr. Huntington's suggested consolidation of railroads. It would be a bad day for all industries when the carrying trade of this country should be at the mercy of one power, whether that power had its head in Wall Street or the House of Representatives.

Several Things Not Explained.

For some reason not yet explained Maj. McKinley failed in his great opening speech to refer to the fact that under his robber tariff on wools and woolens girls are making pantaloons in Chicago for 6 cents a dozen and sewing on cloaks at the rate of 40 cents for 15 hours. If protection makes wages high what is the matter with the employes of the Chicago sweaters!—Chicago Herald.

Getting Ready to Drop.

Mr. Sherman admits that owing to the silver and tariff questions that there is an element of uncertainty in the result of the election in Ohio this fall. When as shrewd a politician as Sherman talks that way in advance of an election it looks very much like he was preparing excuses for the defeat that he sees staring his party in the face in Ohio.—New Orleans Delta.

Horse of Another Color.

Those republican gentlemen who have just been caught attempting to land at New York with smuggled silks about their sacred bodies doubtless went to Europe before their party papers told them that the pauper foreigner paid the duty. Else they would have shown up the goods and had the collector collect from the gentlemen on the other side.—Dayton Times.

Stamp on It Emphatically.

Conservative estimates place the number of republicans in the state who will vote for James E. Campbell, because they cannot indorse the high tariff tax robbery, at 25,000. The way to put an end to this robbery is for the people to stamp on it emphatically on the 31 of November.—Lancaster Eagle.

They Won't Abdicate.

Secretary Foster complains that the press has confused him with John W. Foster who negotiated the treaty with Spain. The only treaty "Calico Charley" is interested in is one between Foraker and McKinley and he can't get the parties to sign.—Chicago Times.

Libelous, Sir!

A Kansas inventor proposes to run street cars with a spiral spring eight feet long. He seems to be unable to secure a spring long and strong enough for his purpose. Why not take the spring out of a Waterbury watch?—Rochester Post-Express.

'Twill Be a Great Tool, Too.

The tin which Maj. McKinley used as an accessory to his opening of the campaign will come handy for the horns which the democrats will use in closing it.—Chicago Times.

Get in the Swim.

If you wish to be in the swim join the democratic phalanx. We are marching on to victory.—Ohio Patriot.

Crisp on the Tariff.

The following is from Congressman Crisp's talk on the tariff in Kansas City Saturday:

"When goods are imported into the United States from abroad a duty is collected by the government on those goods. Whoever brings the goods for sale has to pay the duty. When he sells the goods to the merchant he refunds to him that duty in an increased price. When the merchant sells the goods to the consumer, the consumer refunds the price of the tax he has paid at the port. The consumer of the goods necessarily pays the tax. It is impossible to devise a system by which we can in this country compel the citizens of other countries to support our government. You sometimes hear our republican friends, who ought to know better, men I may say, who do know better, say it compels foreigners to pay for the privileges of coming into our markets.

"Stop and reflect. No foreigner comes into our market for the mere privilege of being in it. He comes to make money, to profitably transact his business and the tax he pays is a part of the cost of that, which he has to sell as his raw material, his labor and his freight. To bring them here all of these must necessarily be paid by the people in this country, who consume the goods. Last year $220,000,000 were paid in duties on foreign goods and all of it came from our own people, not the foreigners. If we paid so much on foreign goods and consumed four or five times more goods of domestic manufacture, let us see what effect the tariff has on the prices of those domestic goods.

"As the price of foreign goods is increased by the tariff, so is the price of all similar goods of domestic manufacture, for the domestic manufacturer who has procured the levying of that tariff fixes a price on the goods he makes himself just under the price of the foreign-made goods plus the tariff. If wheat is arbitrarily made worth $1 a bushel in Kansas City and farmers adjacent can raise it for 20 cents, do you think that they would come here and sell it for 25 cents? No, they would demand the full market price. The only difference is that the tax on the foreign made article is paid into the treasury and the tax on domestic articles, four or five times greater in the aggregate, is paid into the pockets of the manufacturers. You may prefer to buy of the American manufacturer, but this tariff compels you to pay a premium of 47 per cent. for the privilege of doing it. The high tariff is injurious to you because it prevents the exchange of your surplus for the surplus of other countries and also because it makes you pay more for everything you buy."

TO TRIM HIS WHISKERS.

Senator Peffer Getting Altogether Too Gay.

A Peculiar Circular Sent All Over Kansas.

The Latest Arrival in the Ranks of Statesmen is Bringing Untold Trouble to the People.

Topeka, Ks., Aug. 25.—Circulars of a peculiar nature have been sent out over the state from Topeka by what purports to be an organization formed in Kansas which has for its object the expulsion of Senator Peffer from the United States senate. No one here knows of the existence of a financial league, as it is termed, but it is believed that representatives of eastern corporations and others are back of the movement to protect the good name and financial credit of the state.

It is the intention of this league, so this circular reads, to send a monster memorial to the senate asking that steps be taken to prevent Peffer from serving the state as senator. This idea is laughed at by prominent men here, but it is said that charges will be made that illegal means were used in Peffer's election. It will be charged that representatives were bulldozed by steering committees by threats of personal violence, and that extra union soldiers were compelled to vote for him because they feared that a failure to do so would bring upon them swift punishment at the hands of their alliance neighbors when they returned home. The circular says:

"Senator Peffer must not be seated to represent a state he has so grossly injured. If he should be it is patent that our cause is lost, and during his six years' tenure we must sit with bowed heads and cheeks crimson with shame, while from his high place he utters his blasphemy and his degrading calumny against our state and its institutions."

No one here knows whence these circulars emanate, and their publication has created a sensation. Senator Peffer was given his certificate of election several months ago, signed by the governor and proper officers.

The session of the Farmers' alliance commercial convention held to-day was extremely interesting to the spectators. The president, Frank McGrath, in discussing mortgages and loans, declared that it was time to call a halt on the calamity wail of Senator Peffer, Jerry Simpson, and others who were traveling over the country advertising Kansas as a mortgage-riden plague spot.

His speech was inspired by several who have declared that the loan companies were little better than robbers, and McGrath grew both eloquent and indignant, and declared that the farmers of Kansas were not repudiators, but that they desired and were paying off their indebtedness as fast as possible.

He said there was just as much deception practiced by borrowers as by lenders, and that in many cases loans were secured through misrepresentation for more than the value of the mortgaged property, and with no intention of paying the interest or redeeming the property.

Resolutions were passed against capitalists, trusts, and combines, and immediately the convention decided to form the biggest trust ever organized in the United States. They propose to control the prices of everything the farmer has to sell and recommended that the farmers of Kansas hold their wheat till June of next year.

FLOODS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Small Creek Turned Into a Roaring Stream.

Everything Swept Before the Angry Water and Much Damage Caused.

Pen Argyl, Pa., Aug. 25.—Frequent showers for the last week and later the heaviest storm of the season, turned Martin's creek, which runs along the foot of Blue mountains, into a mighty river last night.

A mill dam one mile from Bangor, this county, gave way and the rushing waters took everything in their path. An embankment which protects the Bangor Union Slate company's quarry was washed out and the full stream turned into the quarry, which is one of the largest in this region.

Employes who were guarding the embankment, and who apprehended danger, while removing tools and pumps from the pit had narrow escape from drowning. Incalculable loss falls on this company as this is the busiest time of the year.

Many washouts are reported along the line of the Pennsylvania, Poughkeepsie & Boston railway, but no serious damage has yet been reported. In this section the storm was severe and severe losses are sustained by slate operators.

A cloud burst along Blue Ridge near Wind Gap, early last evening and the small mountain streams which empty into the Monocacy creek increased that stream so as to overflow its banks.

A large Methodist camp meeting which is in progress at Shimer's station on the Lehigh & Lackawanna railroad was partially wrecked. Many tents were washed away and some narrow escapes took place.

AMONG THE SEAL CATCHERS.

Reports from British Commissioner George Baden Powell.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 25.—A letter has been received from Sir George Baden Powell, the British sealing commissioner, who writes from the Pribyloff islands under date of August 5. He says: "We have inspected all the rookeries on the Pribyloff islands. Fifty schooners have been warned and several arrested."

The sealing schooner Laura returned to port yesterday with but 80 skins as a result of the season's catch.

A writ of $10,000 has been issued by the admiralty court against the steamship Gambesi for alleged damage to the schooner Fanny Dutard by a collision in the straits Sunday morning.

The steamer had left port, however, before the writ was issued and Agent Upton, of the steamship line, declined service, so that proceedings are at a standstill. Nothing can be done until the Zambesi returns. The cargo of the injured schooner will be discharged and the vessel repaired.

A Missing Man.

Zanesville, O., Aug. 25.—A sensation has been created by the sudden disappearance last week of James Scott, a prominent young farmer of the western part of the county.

Previous to his departure, it is said, he borrowed all the money he could from his friends, and in addition, it is alleged, forged several notes for different amounts on farmers in his neighborhood and produce buyers in this city, all of which he had cashed either by private individuals or the bank of this city.

Made a Good Haul.

Calcago, Aug. 25.—Attorney H. R. Catlin, of Terre Haute, Ind., last Saturday called on J. W. Phillips, agent in his city of Keeler & Jennings, carriage manufacturers of Rochester, and after distracting Mr. Phillips' attention took papers which Mr. Phillips values at $50,000. Catlin has been arrested and placed under $2,000 bonds until the 31st inst. The papers have not yet been recovered.

The Navy at Bar Harbor.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 25.—Twelve hundred men were landed from the naval fleet yesterday and marched to Kebo park, where they were reviewed by Secretary Tracy and Admirals Gherardi and Walker. Most of the cottagers and town people witnessed the evolutions. The thick fog which has covered Bar Harbor for three days, necessitated the postponement of the fleet drill. It will be held to-day.

FAMINE IN CHIHUAHUA.

Cattle Dying and People Driven Mad by Hunger.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 25.—A letter received here from a prominent citizen of the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, says the most widespread and pitiable famine prevails in that state.

There has been no rain in many sections for two years, cattle are dying by the thousand, and men, women and children are driven almost to madness by hunger.

President Diaz has suspended the customs duties for that state in order that breadstuffs from the United States can be gotten to starving people at the least cost.

Seriously Injured.

Steubenville, O., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Maloney, an old lady 60 years of age, who has been confined to her bed at her home on Seventh street lately by reason of ill health, awoke last night, walked out of a window and sustained frightful injuries. She will die.

Levees Caving In.

Plaquemine, La., Aug. 25.—About 35 feet of the levee just below town caved in Sunday night. The levee at that point will have to be rebuilt.

TO MURDER HIS WIFE.

Bloody Deed of a Toledoan in Fremont.

Doubtful if She Can Recover from the Injuries.

Mrs. Hobe Followed by Her Husband, Whom She Had Left, Probably Fatally Stabbed.

Fremont, O., Aug. 25.—(Special)—Six weeks ago a plain little German woman came to this city from Toledo, and stated that she had left her husband on account of habitual drunkenness and cruelty.

She lodged in a little tumble down shanty and secured a position as washwoman for the Semenia house. She appeared to have a great dread that her husband would discover her hiding place and mentioned her fears to several persons.

Nothing was heard from him, however, until yesterday noon. The woman had given her name as Agusta Hobe. Yesterday Hobe arrived in town from Toledo, where he had somehow obtained a clue to her whereabouts.

Hobe soon found her house, and repairing there, sought admittance.

Mrs. Hobe had heard of his coming and had barred the doors and windows. For over an hour Hobe tried in vain to gain admittance. Mrs. Hobe told him she would admit him if he would come accompanied by an officer.

Hobe at length went away and returned at 3 o'clock in the afternoon with Officer Scanlon.

They were admitted and a long conversation followed. Hobe vainly tried to have his wife accompany him home and live with him.

Previous to this he had told the officer that she had stolen $600 from him. It seems that Mrs. Hobe had saved up this amount from her own earnings and had given it to a man in Toledo named Turner for safe keeping.

Turner had, however, skipped to Canada with the cash, it is alleged, and Hobe thought his wife had it.

It was to secure this that he came to Fremont.

Mrs. Hobe refused to go home with him, and told him she did not have the money.

The conversation ended pleasantly, and after good byes were exchanged Hobe and the officer started to leave the house.

They got as far as the door, when Hobe suddenly sprang at his wife, and pulling out a dirk brought it down in terrific force upon her head, fracturing the skull.

He attempted to strike again, but was seized by the officer and handcuffed. He is a big, burly man, and the officer had a hard tussle with him.

He was taken to jail, where the dirk, a razor and some money were found upon him.

Hobe has a tough reputation. The woman is in a critical condition and the chances for her recovery are very doubtful. Hobe will not talk on the subject.

CANADIAN PACIFIC

It is Reaching Out for More Feeders.

The Temiscamingue Proposition Fully Discussed—The Calgary and Edmonton.

New York, Aug. 25.—The Times says: An important meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway company was held in Montreal yesterday, under the presidency of Mr. Van Horne. Among those present were Lord Mount Stephen, Lord Elphinstone, of England, G. K. Harris, of Boston, and Gen. Samuel Thomas, of New York.

The first business before the meeting was a proposal on the part of the Canadian Pacific railway to take over the Lake Temiscamingue colonization railway. By the proposed agreement the Canadian Pacific is to take the 17 miles of road already completed, the remaining 33 miles to be built by the Temiscamingue railway. The Temiscamingue railway cedes to the Canadian Pacific the entire properties of the road, consisting of lands, buildings, rolling stock, etc. Certain specified proportions of the subsidies voted by parliament and yet to be received are to be applied in reimbursing the Temiscamingue company for the cost of the works already completed and the remainder toward the construction of the works yet to be done.

The Canadian Pacific railway also guarantees to furnish all the money necessary for the completion of the road outside of the government subsidy. A motion was made and approved unanimously authorizing the Canadian Pacific railway to take over the road on their own terms.

The chairman reported that the arrangements for acquiring the Calgary & Edmonton railroad were not yet completed, and it was decided to hold another meeting on October 12 to bring the matter before the company. After the general meeting a special meeting was held to give authorization to the directors to act upon the provisions of the act passed by the Dominion house to amend the Canadian Pacific railway act of 1889. The act provides that the company, by a two-thirds vote of its shareholders, present or represented at a meeting called for the purpose, may fom time to time issue consolidated debenture stock for the purposes specified.

The stock to be issued can only be used for the purpose of either satisfying or acquiring bonds which the company has issued in aid of the construction and equipment of a branch of the railway known as the Souris branch, as well as such additional line or lines as the board of directors may, from time to time, by resolution, declare to be a portion or portions of the Souris branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway company. The issue of bonds is to be limited to $4,000 per mile, and to bear interest not exceeding 4 per centum per annum. The required authorization was given to the directors to issue the debentures.

Wants Something New.

It is one of the pitiable things in politics that a man, who has the artificiality distended reputation of Major McKinley, cannot prepare a new speech. His efforts are stale. He employes no new illustrations, or lines of argument. The whole familiar speech proceeds on the mere defiant statement that his bill is all right. This is bluff, not nerve.—The Massilionian.

Can't Get Away from Facts.

Wool is lower and tin is higher as a result of the McKinley bill. That is the situation right now, and no theorizing and philosophizing and lying of the republican press will remove these adamantine facts.—Mansfield Shield.

BARBARA MOSS ABROAD.

The Home of Jean Ingelow and Thackeray's House.

Attending Sunday Service at St. Paul's.

Hyde Park, Sydinham, the Tower, the Crystal Palace, the Bank of England—Some Comparisons and a Criticism.

Staff Correspondence Toledo Bee.

There are three churches in the world which I have greatly desired to see: St. Peter's church in Rome, the Milan Cathedral and St. Paul's in London. To-day I attended Sunday service in St. Paul's. The three ancient landmarks in London, the site and history of which are unchallenged and unmistakable are Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral and the Tower. The first church was built on the present site A. D. 610. It has been four times burned (that is, the different buildings) once badly damaged by lightning. The last destruction was in the time of the great fire, 1666.

Sir Christopher Wren, England's greatest architect, master of his lodge of Freemasons, laid the corner stone of the present edifice in June, 1675, and lived to complete the entire cathedral. The mallet he used on the occasion mentioned is still preserved. He was over 90 years old when he died, and after he became helpless he was often carried where he could view the work of which he was so proud. His epitaph over the north door reads: "Beneath is buried Christopher Wren, architect of this church and city, who lived for more than 90 years, not for himself but for the public good. If thou seekest his monument, look around."

And indeed, you do "look around" at the vast, magnificent pile which cost nearly a million dollars more than Westminster palace and the houses of parliament.

No, gentle reader, I am not going to attempt to describe "the austere beauty of the Athenian portico or the gloomy sublimity of the Gothic arcade." I shall only beg permission to tell you that wherever you are, in the great city or its suburbs, at Kensington or Sydenham, St. Paul's dome and spire looming up, is the landmark you look for and do not fail to see.

In one tower is a peal of 12 bells that make delightful music; in the other is the "Great Paul," the largest bell in England, weighing 17 tons. In the gilded ball which surmounts the dome 14 persons can stand, and a gold cross is lifted above this. The year of the international exhibition (1862) the verger's receipts for showing the ball and the crypt of the cathedral amounted to nearly $6,000. The minute hands of the great clock weigh 750 pounds each, and the hour hands 440 pounds. It runs eight days with one winding.

Passing up the "geometrical staircase" of 110 steps we reach a valuable library of thousands of volumes, a crypt contains the sarcophagi of Wellington, Nelson, Sir Edward Landseer, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Samuel Johnson and other distinguished dead. An artist might reproduce "a corner" of the arches, statues, carvings and stained glass, but any attempt of mine in black and white would only weary you. The sermon we heard was modern, progressive and eloquent, by Canon ——, name forgotten. It's topic was the divine virtue of patience. There were, at least, 12,000 persons in his congregation. The gardens about the church are open to the public, and a fine royal statue is in the main court.

One of the drawbacks to the cheap and pleasant rides about London is the abuse of horses. The draft horses are great strong Clydesdales, to be sure, but they pull such heavy loads and slip so continually on the smooth pavement, it is a wonder half of them don't get broken legs. Then the driver lashes them as if for pastime or from habit, and the poor faithful creatures get such a patient, dragged-out look, it is pitiful enough. I haven't seen a barbarous overhead check rein since I left America.

To behold the fine roadsters one goes to Hyde park from 4 to 6 in the afternoon when the gentility are out for an airing. You note the confidence and grace with which the English woman sits on her horse, and understand it when you observe, on the course, the children, girls and boys, attended by grooms, taking their daily lessons.

We saw some dashing turnouts and fine riding in the park one morning when the Duke of Cambridge reviewed several regiments of British soldiers, among which were the famous Coldstream guards and Her Majesty's Highlanders in their picturesque uniforms. The drill was a fine sight and impressed one anew with the idea that England has "a standing army," and the wonder breaks out anew that the weak American colonies ever whipped them, such as we were and such as they were, even then.

A ride through Kensington takes one by the simple home with its flower borders where Jean Ingelow lives with her mother and devotes the most of her time to mission work. Many a poor mother and child knows her kind, sweet face framed in its silvering hair. It was she who first led me to long to see the sweet fields of her island home, of which she sang. Do you recall?—

An empty sky, a world of heather,
Purple of foxglove, yellow of broom,
We two among them wading together,
Shaking out honey, treading perfume.

* * * * * * *

Bare grassy slopes where kids are tethered
Round valleys like nests, all ferny-lined,
Round hills with tufted tree-tops feathered
Swell high in their freckled robes behind.

I thought I had courage to ask to see the poet whom I have loved so many years at such distance, but I had not. It seemed an unwarrantable intrusion. Thackeray's house in Kensington is a substantial brick in the midst of tall trees and shrubbery. A high old-time picket fence encloses the grounds. It has occupants—distant relatives of the novelist.

We did the royal palaces so far as we were allowed—gazed at the exterior magnificence of Buckingham, Marlborough House (town residence of the Prince of Wales); St. James, the most ancient palace occupied by royalty, used now for state ceremonials only, and Windsor, twenty miles or less out by underground and overground railway. These tunnel trains make rapid transit, but not pleasant traveling, yet a great convenience and endurable for short distances. I prefer them to the all-prevalent clatter and disfigurement of elevated roads.

The flag was flying from Windsor, indicating that the queen was at home. We didn't ring the door bell. We simply strolled down the long, straight, shaded avenue with the monument at its end, enjoyed the beautiful and extensive grounds, got hungry and hurried back to town.

The old Tower was our next point of attack. To be sure these are stock sights, but one must remember that in them are written the histories of nations, the lessons of centuries. The tailor-made gowns in the swell shop windows would be less gloomy topics of conversation, but we want to get all this substantial coloring laid in for a background, as the artists say. The places we have studied about in history and have seen pictured from our childhood days—to see them with our own eyes, is a great deal. To desire to describe our impressions to others is quite natural, as is demonstrated by the number of times the attempt has been made.

It is probable no other building in the world has such a stirring and varied history as the Tower of London. Julius Caesar reared the first building on this site along the Thames. In 1708 William the Conqueror built the White Tower, and since that time monarchs of England have built, torn down, imprisoned, plotted, murdered, and made the venerable pile what it is, a strange mixture of chapel and prison, palace and dungeon, and later a wonderful storehouse of valuable relics and untold treasure, arsenal, museum and barracks. The buildings and court occupy nearly twenty-six acres. There are eight towers, three of them large enough in themselves to be classed as forts. This was my first surprise. My imagination had pictured a single fortress and a single tower with dark, winding stairs to dungeons at the top. It was once an impregnable stronghold. As a palace the Tower was occupied at intervals by English sovereigns down to Charles II., who lodged in the royal apartments the night before his coronation.

What was the ancient ditch or moat is now laid out in gardens fenced in by iron railings. You remember it was a great fad of those old time monarchs to keep "a royal magazine," and the Lion's gate leads to the place where the animals were confined. Lions, leopards, bears and elephants were valued presents from one soverign to another. In the Bell tower Queen Elizabeth was lodged when she was sent hither by Queen Mary and the narrow staircase is still called "Queen Elizabeth's walk." Through the traitors gate and over the traitors bridge the political prisoners were brought to the court of execution.

In the Wakefield tower is shown, in an iron and glass pavilion, the regalia and crown jewels of the empire. The crown of Queen Victoria occupies the apex of the pyramid of jewel pieces. It was made for her coronation in 1838. It is a dazzling affair of gold crust, diamonds and sapphires—a circlet with cap of crimson velvet over which are carved the fleur de lis patterns in diamonds. In this royal headgear are 2,783 diamonds of all sizes, 277 pearls, 5 rubies, 17 sapphires and 11 emeralds. Many of these jewels are from ancient crowns, antedating even Charles II. There are three other crowns in the collection blazing with pearls and diamonds. The Prince of Wales' coronet is rich and tasteful. The orb of gold which the soverign bears in the right hand at the time of coronation, royal sceptres, staffs, bracelets, spurs, urn for consecration oil at the coronation ceremony, with the anointing spoon, salt cellars, fountains, tankards, baptismal fonts, historic swords and other royal insignia make up the glittering array, the like of which democratic people rarely gaze upon elsewhere. Heaven save us from such a sordid vanity.

The extensive collection of armor, chronologically arranged, consisting of hundreds of pieces, is said to be unrivaled—armor for horse and man; and in the middle aisles every possible relic and device of centuries of warfare is placed. Here is the executioner's block where lovely Mary knelt, saying as she gathered her long hair out of the way of the ax, "It is a slender neck, one blow should suffice." There are marks of the ax upon the stone, and beside the block are the murderous weapon and deathman's mask. Horrible reminders, yet no more barbarous than the scaffold and the strangling rope.

There is something lifelike, warlike and startling in these long lines of armored men on armored horses, equipped cap-a-pie, riding down from the 12th century into the light of the 19th.

It will always be wonderment to me how a man in such heavy metal toggery could move at all, say nothing of being able to thrust and kill other men.

In Queen Elizabeth's armory is the figure of the queen, life-size, mounted on her favorite horse, held by her page in the correct costume of the time. The figure is robed in the real dress which the queen wore on a parade day and the group is a most interesting object lesson. In side cases are the cloak worn by Gen. Wolfe when he was killed at Quebec; and the uniform worn by the first duke of Wellington when he was constable of the tower. There is somehow a sense of nearness in the garments of the dead, that you realize in no other contemplation.

In the Beauchamp Tower, now called the queen's house, we entered the old dungeons and saw the inscriptions and figures the prisoners had cut in the stone during their weary hours of confinement. The old monks defiantly carved crosses.

We looked from the barred window where Lady Jane Gray peered out to behold her husband led to the executioner's block, and to see his headless body borne back again, knowing her turn would come next. We saw the dungeon rooms where Sir Walter Raleigh spent twelve weary, miserable years, a portion of which his faithful wife was permitted to spend with him; and in this dungeon tower their youngest son was born.

The spot in the paved court where the executioner's block stood is marked by an inscribed tablet. St. Peter's chapel adjoining the Tower are buried the noble victims of the bloody ax. Verily is England's history written in blood. Ah, if these massive, gloomy walls had as many tongues as they have bolts and bars! It is well they have not; well that the dark secrets are locked in stony silence. Enough is known. I should think the oppressiveness of the place would be too great even for the soldiers to endure.

One must have a glimpse of the Bank of England, not only because it is the greatest fiscal corporation in the world, but because the building is a study in Corinthian architecture. It covers three acres and is in three parishes. Its interior is more like a palace than a place of business, yet the strength of it, literally and metaphorically speaking, is its grandeur. For more than a hundred years a military force has been stationed nightly within its walls, and in addition to this a force of clerks patrol the building, and the accountant, secretary and treasurer reside on the premises. We looked about the place with a certain kind of timorous awe, where everything moves on so large a scale, yet as carefully and thoroughly adjusted to the minutest detail, as the works of a clock.

The business men of London are well-dressed, and the boutonnierre of rose is the rule. We chanced to be at a railway station where the morning suburban trains set them down by hundreds. They have a well-cared-for appearance, as if they came from the midst of the best kind of home comfort. Then good clothes are cheap; a man's suit costs half what it does in America, and less than it does on the continent.

* * *

When Lady Sherman looked upon the Taj Mahal in Agra, that marvel in white marble, she said, "I would die tomorrow to sleep in such a place." Not quite to this extent does one go when viewing the exquisitely beautiful monument and Memorial hall erected in memory of Prince Albert, the royal consort, but there is a momentary feeling akin to it. In the midst of the gardens of the royal horticultural society, it is like the thought of death clothed with a grace that makes one forget its meaning. Victoria's love for her husband is expressed here to the extent of a hundred thousand pounds, and the affection or helplessness of her people is represented by as much more. The Memorial hall consists of a Gothic cross and canopy with a spire 175 feet in height. One hundred and ninety-eight life-sized figures of men eminent in science, art, history, literature and education adorn the base of the memorial. I inquired if Queen Victoria came here as often and as fondly as of yore, but the man who answered me spoke such thick-tongued coegney English I couldn't understand.

The purest, smoothest English speech in the world to-day is heard among the educated classes in America. I have heard it said that the cultured people of England were in the lead, but if the addresses in the houses of parliament to which we listened were a specimen, then it is not true. These gentlemen have an unmistakably broad accent and a tendency to the aspirated h. And so far as my observation, or rather my hearing has made note, the voices of English men and women are as unpleasant as our own. They are not so shrill perhaps, but they are coarse and harsh and more unmusical. These are unprejudiced opinions up to date. I have not attended any drawing-rooms or soirees yet. But there is a count for the Englishman that shall go on record, the London man at least: he doesn't expectorate on the sidewalks and stairs of public and private places as does the freedom-loving American. But oh, what lots of snuff he drinks. A man at the dinner table to-day with a bottle and glasses either side of him said, "the glory of America is the temperance sentiment she is spreading throughout the world and the curse of England is drink." He said he could tell a party of Americans at table by their dainty eating and the absence of glasses at their plates. Then our cheeks glowed with the praise and we bowed our thanks.

We took a railway train for the suburb Sydenham, and a visit to the Crystal Palace; saw a class of tenement houses which look much more habitable than the wooden rookeries in some of our own large cities.

You need a day for Crystal Palace. There is everything under its great glass roof, everything beautiful in art and nature, and you may wander through its labyrinths, among its art treasures, into the gardens and back again at your own sweet will. The music hall is immense and grand, and summer concerts are in full blast. It must be a veritable fairy land, a dream country, when the thousands of electric lights are burning. You can have your picture taken here, post your letters, send dispatches, buy your dinner or your garments; in fact, it's too big for an outline in an ordinary letter. This palace was Prince Albert's idea and ambition, and its fulfillment of his design is a testimonial to his good heart and excellent judgment.

These apartment hotels have some very unique features. When the long breakfast tables are surrounded by Americans, mostly, the proprietor hustles in from his business office, lifts his hand and says, "whish!" shuts his eyes, one eye, anyway, and proceeds at a galloping pace in monotone. "For what we are about to receive make us thankful for Christ's sake—amen, roas' beef cold 'am boiled eges." The last, detached, is the meat bill of fare. They put knives and forks by your plate, the size of carving utensils and some coffee (such coffee!) in a bowl with a spoon the size of a soup ladle. You have to keep your mind on it that it doesn't tip the bowl over.

To-day we visit the Naval exhibition. I am glad it is in progress this year. By the way, weren't you rather proud of our representatives of Congregationalism over here? We were. They were a fine appearing body of delegates and did some good talking. If there's anything that makes one want to "express myself," it is the patronizing air and tone some Englishmen assume when they commend anything American. You remember the newspaper correspondent on our boat of whom I have already spoken—when he learned of my occupation, he kindly "hoped I would not lose my femininity in such rough contact with the world." He said he thought "American newspapers were horrible." "The New York World—ugh! and the Herald, dreadful—yes, the news; but too utterly unreliable." I noticed in the Herald of July 21 (I think) a communication of his own—(signed Raymond Blathwyt). Like all the rest he is willing to place himself in such "horrible" American company for good American dollars. Possibly he is sufficiently "unreliable" to fill the bill, as he makes it out. I don't believe W. D. Howells ever said all the dreary, pokey, would-be analytical stuff he credits him with. He is the man who boasted of being entertained by Julia Ward Howe, and then said that American society is quite spoiled because too much is made of women in that country. And this speech was made with American ladies for listeners. I told it, I know, in a preceding letter, but I got mad over again when I saw him in the Herald. Now for the Naval Exhibition.

World's Fair Directors Still Squabbling.

Trouble, Under the Surface, Liable to Break Out at the Meeting Next Week.

Chicago, August 25.—Trouble is apparently again brewing between the national commission of the World's Fair and local directory and lively times are looked for when the national commission meets a week from to-day.

The first row will undoubtedly develop when Director General Davis presents his report to the commission showing that practically nothing has been done in the departments of horticulture and liberal arts.

When the commissioners ask what has caused the delay they will be told that the directors have rejected three men in succession who were nominated for chief of horticulture, and the fourth nomination, John M. Samuels, of Kentucky, has been hung up until the directors determine whether it will be safe to reject him also.

The local board is understood to have declared that it will have a California man for the place, preferably Shorb, of Pasadena and Los Angeles. The director general, however, has the power of nomination. To force him to name Mr. Shorb the directors may reject all other nominations for the office with a

TWO ON THE TERRACE.

Warm waves of lavish moonlight
The Capitol enfold,
As if a richer moonlight
Bathed its white walls with gold.
The great bronze Freedom shining—
Her head in other shrinking—
Peers eastward, as divining
The new day from the old.

Mark the mild planet pouring
Her splendor o'er the ground;
See the white obelisk soaring
To pierce the blue profound.
Beneath the still heavens beaming,
The lighted town lies gleaming,
In guarded slumber dreaming—
A world without a sound.

No laughter and no sobbing
From those dim roofs arise,
The myriad pulses throbbing
Are silent as the skies
To us their peace is given;
The meed of spirits shriven;
I see the wide, pure heaven
Reflected in your eyes.

Ah, love! a thousand moons
Shall range their trooping years;
The morning stars their paeans
Shall sing to countless ears.
These married States may sever,
Strong time this dome may shiver,
But love shall last forever,
And lovers' hopes and fears.

So let us send our greeting,
A wish for trust and bliss,
To future lovers meeting
On far-off nights like this.
Who, in these walls undoing
Perforce of time's rough wooing—
Amid the crumbling ruin
Shall meet, clasp hands and kiss.
—John Hay, in Scribner's.

Whistler and Oscar Wilde are great friends. The story goes that on one occasion Whistler told a very funny story, and after the applause had ceased Wilde drawled out somewhat previsely: "Egad, Whistler, I wish I'd said that." Thereupon Whistler retorted, amiably and soothingly: "Ah, never mind, Oscar, but have patience, for you will say it; indeed you will."

A Yale professor has for a breakfast bell an old bronze bell which was once used by Japanese priests in a temple in that country. In digging out the colossal statue of Rameses II. 9 feet and 4 inches of consolidated Nile mud had to be removed before the platform was reached. This platform was laid 1,361 years before Christ, in the reign of Rameses. Hence, 3¼ inches of this consolidated mud represents a century, there having lapsed 3,215 years since then. Under the platform a depth of 30 feet of Nile mud had to be penetrated before sandy soil was reached, and, according to this, 10,000 more years must have elapsed. Pieces of pottery were found there that show the Egyptians to have possessed enough cilivization to form and bake vessels of clay 13,000 years ago.

THE ALDERMEN MEET

And Discuss Numerous Questions of City Business,

But the Most of It Ends in Talk.

The Robisons Called Down by the City Engineer — The Police Court Jury System—Some Street Improvements.

The board of aldermen debating club met in regular session last evening, and as usual managed to consume considerable time in quibbling over small matters and discussing technical points, just to show that they were lawyers and, of course, knew more than anybody else. All were present except Messrs. Macomber and Huberich, so most of the talking was done by Messrs. Everett and Potter.

The real business transacted by the session, however, was not large. Mr. Peiter presented resolutions to turnpike Bay street from the River road to Tiffin avenue, and to turnpike Oak street over the same distance. Both of these streets are in Ironville and the resolutions were adopted.

An ordinance was passed accepting the dedication for park purposes by C. E. Potter of part of lot 413, Vondota division, located on Lincoln avenue.

A triangular lot on Monroe street was also accepted from Morris Scott.

The report of the ways and means committee meeting held Thursday night was presented and read.

Just to Talk.

Mr. Everett objected to voting on this report, as it did not signify anything, and might get them into trouble. He asked why it should be voted on.

President Leroux stated that it had always been the custom to do so, but could give no reason.

Mr. Everett—"Suppose you vote. What have you done?"

President Leroux—"The report is approved, that is all."

Mr. Everett—"The report simply goes on file and a vote might get us into trouble."

In answer to questions Auditor Walker stated that it had always been the custom to vote on the report of the ways and means committee in order to confirm the sale of bonds and other business which does not come up in the form of resolutions and ordinances.

Mr. Everett—"I have no objection to the acceptance of the report, but it must not be anything more than a recommendation of the matters acted upon by the committee. I don't see how it effects the sale of bonds, and don't believe it is the proper way to bring it up."

President Leroux said nothing more, but seemed to consider himself squelched and did not call for a vote on the report.

This is a fair sample of the bickering in the board of Aldermen.

The ordinance to provide for cleaning Collingwood avenue and appointing F. T. Hoag and Robert Nelson as commissioners was passed.

A resolution to turnpike Clark street from Navarre avenue to the Lake Shore railroad was adopted, but later in the evening Mr. Hartford asked to have it reconsidered, as he did not know what they were doing when it was passed and there is considerable opposition to the improvement. The resolution was reconsidered and referred back to the committee on streets.

The time for completing the Lagrange street pavement was extended to October first, Mr. Hartford protesting.

An ordinance to accept the plat of Bolles Place addition was passed.

A resolution was adopted directing the civil engineer to issue a permit to drain property along Lincoln avenue.

The application and bond of Arthur Cowdick as a sewer builder were approved.

Resolutions were adopted for new sidewalks on Division street, Miami street and First street.

Ordinances were passed for the issue of $92,000 general fund refunding bonds and for the issuance of certificates of indebtedness to the amount of $1,000 to pay the salaries of the police court officials.

A Jury Question.

A communication was read from Mayor Emmick in regard to the police court jury law and recommending that the board pass the new ordinance which was presented to them some time ago and recommended by Judge Sala and Prosecutor Wheeler.

Mr. Potter moved that this be laid over for two weeks, and from his tone it was evident that he did not think much of the opinion of the "eminent jurists" in the police court. These slighting remarks were taken up by Judge Sala after the board had adjourned, and quite a heated discussion took place between these two limbs of the law. There was much said about jurisdiction, constitution, able opinions and like legal phrases which lawyers delight in, but as to the outcome of the discussion the only thing that seemed to be settled upon was the fact that a man has no rights which a lawyer is bound to respect.

Street Railways Own the Town.

A petition was presented from property owners on Cherry street stating that on this street south and west of Sherman street, the Consolidated street railway company has not run a car for four months and that for two years there has been no service to speak of. They therefore ask that the railway company's franchise be forfeited. The matter was referred to the railroad committee.

Assistant Solicitor Watts reported the ordinance for the protection of park property as printed in yesterday's Bee, and it was passed.

The following communication was presented to the board from Engineer Wickenden in regard to the cross-over which the Robisons have put in at the Perry street bridge as mentioned in yesterday's Bee:

"The Toledo Electric Street Railway company have, without permission, put in a cross-over track to use in connection with another such track, located at the southeast end of Perry street bridge on Ottawa street. I am informed that it is the intention of the company to use said cross-over tracks by running part of their west-bound cars over the same. This point is already crowded with the ordinary traffic and if these tracks are used in the manner contemplated it will still further complicate the traffic at that point, and I deem the matter of sufficient importance to call your attention thereto.

THOMAS R. WICKENDEN,
City Civil Engineer."

This was referred to the street committee.

Business from the board of councilmen, which was mostly of a routine nature was all adopted.

Thrown from a Carriage.

New York, Aug. 25.—Rev. Frank Clendinin and wife (formerly Miss Gabrielle Greeley, daughter of Horace Greeley) were thrown from their carriage at Westchester yesterday by collision with a wagon, but were not hurt.

A novel plan for extinguishing a church debt has been hit upon in Melbourne. The church committee—or vestry, as the case may be—divide the total debt among themselves and each man insures his life for the amount that falls to his share. The policies are transferred to the church, and the annual payments on them are made out of the collections. Then, of course, as the members of the committee "drop off," the sums insured on their lives drop in, and later, when the last committeeman is dead, the last installment of the church debt is paid. The plan has the merit—if merit it be—of throwing the whole of the responsibility for the continuance of the indebtedness upon providence.

ANOTHER BOOTH SET UP.

Small But Evidently Useful Affair.

Brief Description of the Steel Machine Now on Exhibition for the Inspection of the Board of Elections.

Another sample election booth has been erected on the lot on the corner of Tenth and Jefferson streets, selected by the board of elections for this purpose.

This structure differs vastly from the sample erected by Graff M. Acklin, being entirely of steel.

The booth is the invention of Mr. Frederick K. Plumbly, who represents the firm in Toledo.

This booth is oval-shaped, and the dimensions are 12 feet by 18 feet. The foundation consists of scantling bolted securely to the joist of the floor. The floor is of matched pine, constructed in eight sections and bolted to the joists. The building is neatly finished with moulded edges and fastened to the floor and plates with steel bolts. The entire booth is erected without the use of a single nail.

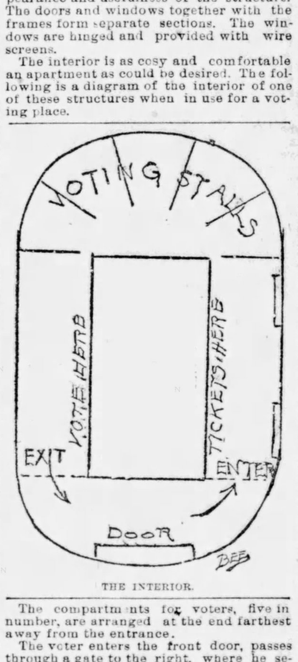
The sides or elevations consist of corrugated steel plate, bolted to the plates and floor studs. The upper end of the rafters are placed in iron sockets, while the lower ends are securely bolted. A combined chimney and ventilator adds to the appearance and usefulness of the structure. The doors and windows together with the frames form separate sections. The windows are hinged and provided with wire screens.

The interior is as cosy and comfortable an apartment as could be desired. The following is a diagram of the interior of one of these structures when in use for a voting place.



THE INTERIOR.

The compartments for voters, five in number, are arranged at the end farthest away from the entrance.

The voter enters the front door, passes through a gate to the right, where he secures a ticket. He passes on to a stall where the ticket is made out, after which he passes on to the box, turns in his ticket, walks through a gate at the left and out at the front entrance.

The voting stalls are fitted out with self-closing doors and are lighted by skylight.

The manufacturers of the booth claim that three men can take the entire building down or put it up in two hours, and the object of the oblong shape is that it can be placed on very narrow streets without obstructing traffic. They are an ornament and as cheap if not cheaper than a modern building, costing about $150 each.

CARROLL JOHNSON

Scores a Hit in the Gossoon at the People's.

Every seat was taken at the People's theater last evening on the occasion of Carroll Johnson's first appearance here in the Gossoon, Edward E. Kidder's latest comedy-drama success. It was sort of a first night audience, typical of larger cities. There were plenty of connoisseurs present, a good many newspaper men, and a host of Johnson's friends, who knew and admired him in successes of former years. The audience was bubbling over with good nature, still in a measure it was inclined to be critical at the same time. The star, the company and the piece passed through the ordeal and came out victorious, for there can be no doubt but that the Gossoon made an empatic hit.

The piece is bright, the lines witty, the business sparkling and the actors all good. Perhaps some of the success of the Gossoon lies in the fact that it is intelligently and artistically interpreted. A good company can do wonders with even a poor piece, and in the Gossoon they have excellent material to work with.

The plot of the piece has been printed in the BEE, so that a word about the actors will suffice. Of course Carroll Johnson, a young Irish squire called the Gossoon, is the central figure. He is graceful, handsome, acts, sings and dances well and catches the audience with every line he utters. Mart E. Hersey, as the English adventurer, plays the part as a good actor should. He overdoes nothing, and one has to admire the villain's work, which is usually a thankless task. Harry Fenwick was very clever as Bernard Mally, a young farmer in love with Clancy's sister Rose. He is a painstaking actor, and dresses the part elegantly. Annie Shindle as Annable Grey was bright and captivating. Mrs. G. A. Mortimer as Pansey Peters, an elderly English maiden who murdered her h's frightfully, made one of the hits of the evening. Dandy Darragh was well handled by Mart E. Hersey, who portrayed the ancient Dublin beau. W. D. Stone and Hugh J. Ward as Cullen and Rody Dugan, also came in for their share of praise in the general success, as did the pig, played by himself. Johnson makes the bit of his life in the Gossoon, and his future success in this line of business is already assured. The piece is an artistic one and is sure to be a financial success.

ROUTINE BUSINESS

Disposed of by the Gas Trustees.

Proposition to Change the Quality of Pipe—Appropriations for Gas—Last Night's Meeting.

The natural gas trustees met last night in regular weekly session with all members present except Mr. Clarence Brown.

A resolution by Mr. Brown that should have been acted upon at the last meeting was taken up. It was to the effect that the manager should lay a line in the alley between Summit and Water streets from Adams to Monroe street.

Mr. Backus thought the board ought to lay the resolution over until Mr. Brown was present to defend it.

Mr. Greene opposed the resolution on the part of the business men along the alley on account of the danger attending a pipe line so close to their basements.

The resolution was laid over for one week.

Mr. Green submitted a resolution for a four inch line to be laid on Collingwood avenue, north from Bancroft street 200 feet, and stated that Mr. Smith would take 4-inch pipe from the city on his account and lay the line for $120.

Col. Parsons moved that the resolution be amended so as to make the property owners advance the money required to lay the line. The resolution was adopted as amended.

The manager recommended that a safe be purchased for the safe keeping of the large ledgers; referred to committee on supplies.

A proposition was read from Parks, Foster & Co., relative to the pipe in the alley between Summit and and St. Clair streets. They offered to substitute 8 inch wrought iron standard screw pipe for the cast iron pipe now in the alley. To make the change in the 2,200 feet it would cost about $1,100.

Supt. O'Herron recommended the change, and said they could not prevent some leakage in the cast iron pipe.

Mr. Bachus thought the recommendation to change pipes should have been made sooner.

The cast iron pipe now in the alley it was proposed to lay on Lenk street.

The arbitrators on the dispute as to pipe here reported that while some of the pipe was rough in appearance, the general quality of the metal was good, and that the pipe could be used.

Dr. Jones thought the change was too expensive, and that the city should not obligate itself to the required amount necessary to make the change.

Mr. Greene moved that the report be accepted.

The motion to change was lost by a vote of two to two.

The superintendent recommended an additional 4-inch line in the alley between Adams and Madison streets from Superior street west. The suggestion was approved.

A list of lines to be contracted for was referred to the committee on city plant.

The lot in the rear of the building occupied by the trustees was rented from Mr. Darst at $6 per month.

A report of the final estimate of the six-inch line on Buckeye street amounting to $1,088.66, was accepted.

One half of a bill of $75 from the arbitrators was ordered paid.

A petition from the property owners of a part of the land fronting on Vance street, asking for a line to be laid on said street on the advance cash system, was read and approved.

Bids will be opened for the construction of the Vance street line on the 26th, when it will be put in as soon as possible.

The secretary reported receipts of the 21st, 22d, and 24th, amounting to $1,268.

A schedule of claims amounting to $428.27 was approved, and the board adjourned.

BAD OBSTRUCTION

Placed at the Perry Street Bridge

By the Robison Electric Street Railway Company—The City Officials After Them.

In the account of the board of aldermen proceedings, published in another column, is a communication from City Civil Engineer Wickenden regarding the cross-over track put in Ottawa street at the end of the Perry street bridge by the Robison Electric Street Railway company.

The communication states that this track was put in without authority and is a great obstruction to traffic, and calls for some action by the council.

During the evening Mayor Emmick, Engineer Wickenden and Assistant Solicitor Watts met in the engineer's office, and this cross-over track and how to remove it was the theme of discussion.

"This track was put in Sunday," said Mr. Wickenden, "and without their having even asked for any permission. It runs clear across Ottawa street at the end of the bridge and back again, and it will make a very bad obstruction in the street, besides forming a net work of tracks that will tear the wheels off of almost any light vehicle. There is more traffic at this point than at any other place in the city. There is always a stream of teams coming down from the Union depot, another converging at the bridge from the freight house and yards, and immense traffic the other way off of Summit street, besides the street car travel of half a dozen lines crossing the bridge.

"It is the intention of the Robisons to run part of their cars around the curve over this cross-over, which runs onto both tracks and takes up the whole street. Whenever a car is on it all traffic must stop. It's time we were finding out if the street railways own the town, and that track must be removed."

Mayor Emmick was of the same opinion, and expressed himself in very strong language, and was in favor of having the street commissioner tear the track up without any further ado.

Mr. Watts also considered the track an obstruction, and the placing of it in the street an outrage that demanded immediate action. He suggested taking the Robisons into police court under the city ordinances which provide a fine of $500 for offenses of that nature. It was not decided what action should be taken, but it is very plain that the cross-over must go.

This track has been a source of great annoyance and obstruction all day yesterday and to-day, just as Engineer Wickenden stated, and the street at that point has been blockaded a good part of the time.

Harbor Master Skeldon, who has charge of the bridges, and whose office is located at the Perry street bridge, also declared the track an obstruction, and is very bitter against the Robisons for their work about this bridge, which has caused so much trouble to his department and the public in general.

The Life and Times of Kateri Tekakwitha.

What the September Magazines Offer.

The North American — Harper's — Scribner's — Peterson's — Cassells' Publications—General News and Notes.

A book out of the common run is Ellen H. Walworth's "Life and Times of Kateri Tekakwitha," published by Peter Paul & Bro., Buffalo, N. Y. "The Lily of the Mohawks," "La Bonne Catherine," "Little Sister," and "The Genevieve of New France" are names by which this Indian maiden was known, whose modest life was lived out between the years 1656 and 1680, upon whose head the hands of good Father de Lamberville were laid when in the baptismal rite she was received into the Christian faith and the Holy Catholic church. The story of her life is beautifully and sympathetically told by Miss Walworth, but as the title indicates the book is more than a biography, it is a history as well. Nothing in the book is better done than the discriptions of the march of De Courselle's army, in the winter of 1665-66 from Canada to Shenectady, of Albany at the time of its transfer from the Duten to the English; of the burning of the Mohawk villages by De Tracy; of the battle between the Mohawks and Mohegans; of the customs and daily life of early colonists and Indians; of the labors, deprivations and dangers of the missionaries who first lifted the emblem of salvation in the wilderness, and followed it whithersoever duty led. The book has eight illustrations, and valuable original maps, drawn by Gen. John S. Clark, of Auburn, and Rev. C. A. Walworth, of Albany, N. Y. Printed in tinted paper, 12mo., 325 pages, cloth binding; price $1.25. For Sale by Brown, Eager & Hull.

Some September Magazines.

The North American Review for September opens with a reply to Goldwin Smith's paper in the August Review, "New Light on the Jewish Question." This reply, "Goldwin Smith and the Jews," will very likely make Mr. Smith wish he had hidden his "light" under a bushel until he had tested its qualities. Of the writer, Isaac Bashi Bendavid, the Review says in its monthly bulletin, it "is not at liberty to publish a biography," but that he is "a most accomplished writer, a scholar of unusual learning, an ardent advocate of the rights of the Hebrew race," all of which is borne out by his contribution to the Review. His consideration and courtesy toward Mr. Smith also stamp him a thorough gentleman, though he does not spare Mr. Smith's statements, but demolishes every one of them. "A Plea for Railroad Consolidation," by C. P. Huntington, will command attention because of Mr. Huntington's position in the business world as a financier and president of one of the great Pacific lines. "The Ideal Sunday" is a plea for Sunday opening of art galleries, music halls and museums, by Rev. Charles Eaton, of New York. A symposium on "Is Drunkenness Curable?" is a notable paper of this month's Review, the contributors being Drs. Wm. A. Hammond, T. N. Crothers, Eon N. Carpenter and Cyrus Edson, all specially qualified to deal with the question. Their conclusion is that, given will power and moral stamina in the patient, drunkenness is curable, but is there anything new in this conclusion? Three women contributors write on subjects on which they are specially informed: Mrs. Mary A. Livermore on "Co-operative Womanhood in the State;" Ouida on "Dogs and Their Affections;" Ciara Morris on "Reflections of an Actress." Ex-Minister Douglass' paper on Hayti has already been reviewed in the BEE. The destruction of the "Albemarle" is once more graphically told in a hitherto unpublished letter by the late Admiral Porter. Oscar Fay Adams writes on "Our Dreadful American Manners" in the Notes and Comments, which department has other interesting contributions.

Scribner's for September has for its opening article the fifth of its series on ocean steamships, "Steamship Lines of the World," by Ridgely Hunt, lieutenant U. S. Navy. It is very interesting, fully illustrated, and accompanied by a chart of the world on which is traced the principal steamship routes. "Old American Homes" is a bright paper, and the illustration of "dugouts," a Kansas sod house, Indian tepee, "Squaw Man's" home, odd houses in Greenland, Hatteras Island, Mexico, and the Adirondacks, sugges the scope of the article. Far away lands are remembered in "The City of the Sacred Bo-Tree," not to mention Robert Louis Stevenson's second installment of "The Wrecker." Felix Moscheles writes sympathetically of "Browning's Ascio," and Andrew Lang delightfully of "Adventures among Books." It is almost impossible to refrain from quoting from Mr. Lang, but really his paper deserves to be read entire. The complete story in Scribner's this month is "Run to Seed," by Thomas Nelson Page. An article on "University Life" is contributed by Professor Royce of Harvard, and other good things remain unmentioned.

Peterson's for September has a seasonable article on Fresh and Dried Flowers, with instructions for drying so that the color of the leaves are preserved; an illustrated paper on "The Scene of a Famous Novel," the neighborhood of "John Halifax, Gentleman," and other good contributions, with the usual full fashion department. The supplement is a pattern sheet, full size, for the popular Breton jacket, with an embroidery pattern for fruit napkins and a pattern for a butterfly in outline stitch. Peterson's is $2 a year, with greatly reduced price to clubs. Address Peterson's Magazine, Philadelphia.

From the Harpers.

The enterprising publishers of Harper's Magazine call attention to the number and excellence of the illustrated papers in the September issue. The magazine is at hand and fully warrants all that is said in its praise. Among the notable articles are: Edwin A. Abbey's illustrations of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing;" an article on the New York Chamber of Commerce, by Dr. Richard Wheatley, with portraits reproduced from Trumbull's paintings, besides numerous other pictures, George du Maurier's "Peter Ibbetson," with 14 characteristic illustrations drawn by the author; Montgomery Schuyler's "Glimpses of Western Architecture," with views of some notable dwelling-houses and other buildings in Chicago; another chapter of Walter Besant's "London," with pictures of the remains of mediæval palaces and other remarkable structures; and F. Hopkinson Smith's "Under the Minarets," beautifully illustrated from his own paintings. One of the most striking articles in this number is M. de Blowitz, contribution on "Germany, France and General European Politics." The evolving of W. D. Howells' "An Imperative Duty" inclines the reader to the belief that this is his strongest story. "A Wheat-field Idyl" is a short story of country life by Elizabeth Stoddard. In this number is the first instalment of letters written by Dickens to his familiar friend, Wilkie Collins. The letters are authenticated by Georgina Hogarth, and commented on by Laurence Hutton, and will be welcomed by all the reading world.

The Editor's Drawer of Harper's has grown to be no unimportant part of the magazine since Charles Dudley Warner became its editor, and opens the drawer every month with one of his own inimitable essays. His subject for September is "The Realism of Women." It is good news to learn that a score or more of these essays have been collected and arranged for printing in book form and that a dainty volume of them will soon be published by Harper & Brothers, illustrated by H. W. McVickar and others. The title of the volume will be "As We Were Saying."

"The Moon Prince," which R. K. Munkittrick is writing for "Harper's Young People," after the style of "Alice in Wonderland," is delighting the young folks. The issue of this little magazine of August 18 had some good advice for beginners at lawn tennis, by Mr. Campbell, America's champion.

Harper's Weekly for August 19 contained full-page portraits, with biographical sketches, of the late George Jones, of the New York Times, and of James Russell Lowell. The sketch of Mr. Lowell was written by his life-long friend, George William Curtis. A timely paper in the same issue was "Should the United States help Chili?" by Richard Trumbull, agent of the revolutionary party. In the same number are portraits of all the leading tennis-players who will play for the championship at New York, and a yachting supplement, with a double page of illustrations showing the principal yachts in the 46 foot class.

A new romance by James M. Ludlow, entitled A King of Tyre; a Tale of the Times of Ez a and Nehemiah, will be published this week by Harper & Brothers. Those who have read Dr. Ludlow's Captain of the Janizaries will welcome the new work.

From the Cassell Company.

The beautiful frontispiece in the September number of The Magazine of Art, "The Morning after the Ball," is a delicate etching after a painting by A. A. Anderson, an American in whose growing fame his countryman take pride. "Longleat, the seat of the Marquis of Bath," is described and illustrated in this number. A paper of interest to decorative artists is "The Dragon of Mythology, Legend and Art." Other papers are: "Our Artists and Our Universities," a complaint that the universities of England do not pay sufficient attention to art; "The Maddocks Collection at Bradford," with engraved reproductions of its most striking pictures; "The English School of Miniature Painting," "The Potteries of Aller Vale"; and a paper by Leonel Cust on the Flemish painter and poet, Lancas D'Heere, of the Elizabethan era, with engravings of some of his paintings. This magazine is 35 cents a number; $3.50 a year.

"That Little Woman" is the taking title of a new serial begun in the September number of Cassell's Family Magazine. Do you know what "Fossiking" is? This number of the magazine tells, in a very interesting way. Short stories and serials, poetry, music, fashion letters, and a well selected miscellany, make up each number of this family magazine, the price of which is only $1.50 a year; 15 cents a number.

The Cassell Publishing company announces the seventh volume in Prof. Henry Morley's "English Writers" serie, which covers the period "from Caxton to Coverdale," that is from A. D. 800 to A. D. 1540.

The same company has concluded arrangements by which they will become the American publishers of two well-known and favorite novelists—Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Parr. The authors of the "Wooing O't," and of "Dorothy Fox," need no introduction to American readers.

"Lance Falconer," the author of "Mademoiselle Ixe," has written the sixth volume of Cassell's popular "Unknown" Library. "The Hotel D'Angleterre, and other Stories," is the title of the volume. Lance Falconer, as to whose personality there has been much speculation, is Miss Mary Elizabeth E. Hawker, a young English woman. She wrote Madsmoiselle Ixe in 1885 and experienced the traditional hardships of young writers in getting it published. It is said to have been inspired by the pathos of certain Russian music.

Some Miscellaneous Mention

The Strand Magazine for August opens with the second of its "Illustrated Interviews," this with Henry Stacy Marks, R. A., giving a view of his studio, of the artist at work, his portrait at 21, sketches of some of his nota ble works, and other illustrations. A very touching one is "First Earnings," which is explained in the text where the artist tells how, having sold his first exhibited picture for "fifteen golden sovereigns," he returned home and spread them upon a table for his mother to find in the morning. The picture shows the good mother smiling over the sovereigns. There are a number of illustrated complete stories, an article on "Music of Birds," illustrated by scale on which the notes of the feathered songsters are caught, Another subject is "Cats," which is not illustrated with their songs but with very fine feline portraits. "In and About Nowmarket," "Celebrities at Play," "Up a Shot-Tower," are all illustrated and interesting. Americans desiring the Strand Magazine will address the International News Company, 83-5 Duane street, New York.

Littell's Living Age for August 22 contains: Laurence Oliphant, Kane, a Soldier Servant, 1796—A Rustic Retrospect, The Farmer-Monk, The Recovered Aristotle, Square Doot of Doot Hall, Doot Hill, Ireland, Wayfaring by the Upper Dordogne, The First Handsel Festival, Invisible Paths, Why I am an Abstainer, with poetry and miscellany.

Another publication, giving good full-page portraits and interesting sketches of Editor George Jones and James Russell Lowell, is The Journalist for August 15. The Journalist is published for newspapers, authors, artists and publishers, contains bright letters about the publishing trade from all over the country, and is well patronized by those for whom it is issued.

The last issue of the Queen Isabella Journal, a quarterly publication of the Queen Isabella association, contains many timely articles and much interesting information concerning the work of the association. Lucy Waite, M. D., writes of the kinship of Isabella of Castile to the women of the nineteenth century. Among the subjects discussed are the Press, Medical, Art, Dramatic, Legal and Household Science departments of the world's auxiliary congress. Reports from Mrs. Lucinda Stone of Michigan, and Mrs. Louisa Southworth, of Ohio, are given, and the outline of a full course of study for Isabella circles is suggested. There is a plan of the Isabella pavilion and other matters of interest to women in connection with the world's fair. The Isabella Journal is only 25 cents a year and should be read by every intending visitor to "the fair." Published at 70 State street, Chicago.

Notes.

Lee & Shepard are soon to publish a book written by Rev. Louis A. Banks on the sweating system and tenement house.

Jules Verne has a son, Michael, who is developing a talent for writing stories, very much in his father's highly imaginative style.

Prof. Tyndall's health is improving to such an extent that he is preparing for the press a volume of essays, addresses and reviews, to be issued under the title Fragments of Science.

Prof. A. S. Hardy, of Dartmouth college, autnor of But Yet a Woman, who sailed for Europe recently, took with him the uncompleted manuscript of a novel, which he hopes to have ready for publication a year hence.

It is announced that Marv Anderson de Navarro is soon to become an author. Her book will be about stage life and stage people written from her large fund of reminiscences of famous men and women whom she has met during the past 15 years.

The McMillans of London announce a popular edition of James Russell Lowell's poems, uniform with Tennyson, Scelly and others. General satisfaction is felt in England as in this country, that Mr. Lowell left his manuscripts for Professor Norton of Harvard, to edit.

Anthony Comstock tells what he knows about "Vampire Literature" in the August North American, but he fails to explain or justify the low-down decoy devises by which he has encouraged it for the sake of capturing the vaunted contents of his vile smut-bag. There is but one country in the known world where an article by Comstock could find a place in any respectable publication.—Boston Globe.

Ward McAllister is having a row with his publishers and has gone to law with them. He makes oath that all the money they have paid him is $8,500, whereas their promise to him was that the book would net him between $15,000 and $20,000. Ward had better keep out of court. He has received $3,499 more than his manuscript would have sold for as white paper, its only value, and dollars to buttons his publishers are money out.

The invoice of a rare old Polish bible, printed in 1563 and imported by C. F. Gunther, was received at the custom house yesterday. The bible itself will be received to-day. Mr. Gunther purchased it from a bookseller in Frankfort-on-the Main and paid 900 marks, or $214, for it. Being over twenty years old the book comes in free of duty under the law. The bible has quite a history. It has been in the family of a Polish nobleman since it was issued and was handed down from generation to generation, but the last owner became unfortunate and he was compelled to pledge it with a pawnbroker. Failing to pay the usurious interest demanded the bible was forfeited.—Chicago Times.

SPLENDID ESTABLISHMENT.

The New Home of the Oliver Ditson Company.

The Largest and One of the Oldest Music Publishing and Musical Merchandise Houses in the World.

As your correspondent has already had occasion to remark in these columns, removals of prominent business concerns into larger premises seem to be just now the order of the day. And none of these removals will, or ought to, attract a greater share of public attention than that of the famous Oliver Ditson Company, publishers of music books, sheet music, etc., who have recently removed to the building Nos. 453 to 463 Washington street, Boston. The building is five stories high, with a frontage of seventy feet, all of which is occupied by this company. The first or street floor is devoted to a retail salesroom, the right of the entrance being used for American publications and the left for foreign publications of music. This room has been fitted up with excellent taste, all the woodwork being of oak. A balcony extends around three sides of the room, from which the upper tiers of shelves are reached, thus doing away with unsightly ladders usually seen in similar establishments. The balconies are ornamented with carved figures, or medallions. In the center of the room and directly in front of the entrance is the elevator running to the top floors, in the rear of which is a wide stairway also running to the top floors. In the rear of the first floor are the mailing and wholesale departments. The second floor is used for piano ware rooms and offices. Here is to be found a new departure in piano rooms; on one side small rooms have been partitioned off and fitted up (miniature parlors they might be called,) elegantly furnished with easy chairs, Turkish rugs, draperies, etc., all in perfect harmony. In these rooms pianos are placed. This gives a customer an opportunity to test an instrument and know just how it will sound in a parlor at home.

There is also a room on this floor devoted to the sale of second-hand pianos, also the general office and President John C. Haynes' private office. On the third floor the business done under the style of John C. Haynes & Co. is conducted. Here is one of the most complete and perfectly arranged musical merchandise establishments in the country. The floors above are used for sheet music publications, etc. The basement is also used for the same purpose.

Besides this large building they occupy the basement and four upper floors of the building adjoining, No. 451 Washington street. The building is lighted by the Edison incandescent and are electric light system, and the elevator is also run by electricity, this being one of the first houses to use electricity for elevator power.

When it is stated that if the sheet music and publications carried in stock at the present time by the house were placed in a single tier one above the other they would reach a height of two and a half miles, one can gain some idea of the immense amount of business done by the house in this line. In fact, this is the largest and most complete establishment of its kind in the world. While on a visit to this establishment your correspondent gained some interesting particulars regarding this well-known concern.

The business of the house was originally founded more than a half a century ago by the late Oliver Ditson, who died in December, 1888. He was one of the pioneers in his line of business in this country. In March, 1889, the surviving partners of the former firm of Oliver Ditson & Co. and the executors of the estate of Oliver Ditson, organized a corporation under the laws of Massachusetts under the style of the Oliver Ditson Company, since which time they have conducted the business of music-publishing and dealing in musical merchandise without interruption, in the building next adjoining their present location.

The officers and directors of the company are: John C. Haynes, President; Chas. H. Ditson, Treasurer; Chas. C. Williams, Chas. P. Smith and Moses Williams, all of whom are well and favorably known in business and musical circles throughout the country.

President Haynes has been with the house since 1845, and a partner since 1857. It is safe to say that there is not in this country a higher authority upon everything pertaining to this line of business than President Haynes. He is President of the Musical Board of Trade, an organization which includes all the leading music publishers of the United States.

He, together with Mr. Clarence A. Woodman, who is a member of the corporation, gives his personal supervision to the management of the business in this city.

Mr. Charles H. Ditson the treasurer, was a partner in the old firm for twenty years. He has charge of the New York City branch, which is located at 867 Broadway, and is still run under the style of Charles H. Ditson & Co. Associated with him is Mr. Edward S. Cragin, who is also a member of the corporation. Mr. Ditson has held the office of Secretary of the Musical Board of Trade for the past eighteen years. The business heretofore carried on under the style of John C. Haynes & Co. at No. 694 Washington street is removed to the new building, while the retail salesroom is still continued at No. 33 Court street, all of which is in charge of Mr. Charles C. Williams. The business consists in the manufacture, importation and sale of musical instruments and musical merchandise of every description. They also have a Philadelphia branch under the style of J. E. Ditson & Co., in charge of Mr. Fred. E. Spear, also a member of the corporation. In the West they are represented by Messrs. Lyon & Healy, of Chicago, the largest musical house in the Northwest. The company handle the Decker & Shoninger pianos and the Wilcox & White automatic organs. The piano department is under the management of Mr. S. A. Gould.

The Oliver Ditson Company own probably the largest catalogue of music and music book publications of any house in the world, and are the largest and oldest music publishing and musical merchandise importing and handling house in the United States, and are well known and universally respected. There is no concern in the world in any line of business enjoying a more honorable reputation than the Oliver Ditson Company. In fitting up this new establishment they have not only consulted their own convenience but that of their many patrons as well. To that end they have left nothing undone that would in any way contribute to the general comfort.—From the Mercantile and Financial Times correspondent.

Gen. Raikes Dead.

London, Aug. 25.—The postmaster general, Mr. H. C. Raikes, is dead. Mr. Raikes, who was just recovering from an indisposition, went out walking yesterday when he received a severe electric shock during a thunderstorm. He was immediately taken to his home and medical assistance promptly summoned. Illness had, however, so exhausted the postmaster general that his strength was insufficient to enable him to meet the sudden and terribly exacting demand thus made upon him.

A Friendly Bout.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—A special to the Post from Mt. Clemens, Mich., says: "Parson" Davies and Hall, the pugilist, had a "friendly bout" at one of the hotels about 3 o'clock this morning. Hall's throat was cut, but the knife missed the jugular vein and Hall will live.

Caused by Washouts.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 25.—No trains are running on the Lebanon branch of the Reading owing to washouts by storm. A freight train went through a culvert near Wernersville, and the cars were washed away. August Kohn, a tramp on the train, had his leg broken. A third of a mile of track was washed away.

That tired feeling is entirely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which creates an appetite, rouses the liver, cures headache, and gives renewed strength and vigor to the whole body. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself. Sold by all druggists.

MEMBERS OF THE BAR.

Fourteenth Annual Session of the American Association

To Be Commenced in Boston To-Morrow.

A Long List of Important Papers to be Read and Other Business to Be Transacted.

Boston, Aug. 25.—(Special)—The fourteenth annual meeting of the American Bar association will be held here on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

The American Bar association was organized in 1878 and its constitution states that "Its object shall be to advance the science of jurisprudence, promote the administration of justice and uniformity of legislation throughout the union, uphold the honor of the profession of the law, and encourage cordial intercourse among members of the American bar."

Only members of the bar in good standing for five years in their respective states are eligible for membership.

There are now 934 members representing 42 different states. The average attendance of the members at the meetings of the association is about two hundred.

"Up to the present time all of the sessions of the association have been held at Saratoga with one exception of 1889 when the association met at Chicago. It is now considered as an established rule of the association that it will be held every alternate year at Saratoga and on the other years at different cities. This year the association will meet at Boston, at Horticultural hall, Tremont street, and the Parker house will be the general headquarters for members, where a reception room will be set apart for the use of the gentlemen.

The first session will be held on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, and the constitution requires that the president shall open the annual meeting of the association with an address in which he shall communicate the most noteworthy changes in statute law on points of general interest made in the several states, and by congress during the preceding year.

This address will be delivered by Prof. Simeon E. Baldwin, of Yale College Law School, and he has prepared his address by classifying the different subjects which have been affected by legislation, both state and federal, during the past year, and his address is a very able one and of great interest to the profession.

The balance of the session on Wednesday morning will be devoted to the nomination and election of new members; the election of the general council, which consists of one member from each state, and the secretary, treasurer and executive committee will submit their reports.

The second session will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Frederick N. Judson, of St. Louis, will read a paper on "The Liberty of Private Contract under the Police Power," and William B. Hornblower, of New York, will also read a paper on "The Legal Status of the Indian."

There will be no evening sessions.

The executive committee annually appoint some member of the association to deliver an annual address, and this year Alfred Russell, of Michigan, will deliver the address on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. His subject will be "The Avoidable Causes of Delay and Uncertainty in our Courts."

Mr. Russell will treat of his subject under four heads. The relation of lawyer and client, the jury system, the judiciary, and the abuse of federal court jurisdiction by corporations.

After the annual address has been delivered the committee will make their reports. There are a number of these committees, all of which are composed of men of high standing at the bars in their respective states, and very large number of matters of interest to the profession will be treated of in their reports.

At the last meeting of the association the by-laws were amended so as to permit the association to award to such person in any country as the association on recommendation and nomination of the committee on award of medal may deem by have merited it by services in advancing the science of jurisprudence or the administration of justice. This committee is composed of living ex-presidents of the association, and they will submit their report on Thursday. It is not now known to whom this medal will be awarded, and the nomination of the committee is awaited with interest.

The ex-presidents of the association in the order in which they served from 1878 to date are—

James O. Broadhead, St. Louis, Mo.; Benjamin H. Bristow, New York; Edward Phelps, Burlington, Vt.; Clarkson N. Potter, New York; Alexander R. Lawton, Savannah, Ga.; Cortland Parker, Newark, N. J.; John W. Stevenson, Covington, Ky.; Wm. Allen Butler, New York; Thomas J. Semmes, New Orleans, La.; George G. Wright, Des Moines, Ia.; David Dudley Field, New York; Henry Hitchcock, St. Louis, Mo.; Simeon E. Baldwin, New Haven, Conn.

All of these are living except Clarkson N. Potter and John W. Stevenson.

On Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a session at which special committees will submit reports on various subjects and discussions will follow.

On Friday morning at 10 o'clock the association will hold its last business session. The officers will then be nominated and elected, and all unfinished business will be disposed of and the association will adjourn. On Friday evening the annual dinner will be given at the Parker house.

The officers of the association are: Simeon E. Baldwin, of New Haven, Conn., president; Edward Otis Hinkley, of Baltimore, Md., secretary, and Francis Rawle, of Philadelphia, Pa., treasurer.

Mr. Hinkley has filled the office of secretary ever since the organization of the association, and Mr. Rawle has been treasurer almost the entire period also, and these gentlemen will, undoubtedly, continue in their respective offices. The president, however, according to the constitution of the association, cannot be re-elected.

The affairs of the association are conducted by an executive committee which is composed of the president, secretary, treasurer, the last president, Henry Hitchcock, of St. Louis, and George A. Mercer, of Augusta, Ga.; Alfred Hemenway, of Boston, Mass., and William P. Wells, of Detroit, Mich.

There is a special committee this year of members residing in Boston, composed of—

Wm. G. Russell, Wm. C. Endicott, Wm. Gaston, G. O. Shattuck, M. F. Dickinson, jr., Henry W. Putnam, Jas. J. Myers, Lauriston L. Scaife, Charles T. Russell, jr.

And the Boston Bar association have appointed a committee to take charge of the proceedings, composed of John Lowell, president; Ebenezer Hoar, Causten Browne, Albert E. Pillsbury, C. P. Gallagher, Melvin O. Adams, Roger Wolcott, Robert Grant, secretary.

A TALE OF THE KITE.

Hardships Endured by the Explorers.

Fighting Icebergs and Polar Bears.

The Permanent Camp Located as Far North as the Famous Jeannette Went—Interesting Notes

New York, Aug. 25.—Latest news received from the steamship Kite tells an interesting story of the hardships and dangers of such a trip.

Lieut. Peary, his wife and five associates were landed in McCormick bay, Murchison sound. Whale sound, his original destination, was frozen over and inaccessible by reason of ice islands and bergs. While in Melville bay Peary broke his leg below the knee and he landed from the Kite on a stretcher. The accident occurred on July 11, about latitude 70 degrees, longitude 58 degrees 57 minutes.

The steamer had been jammed in about the same position for some time. In the evening of that day a strong breeze came up and the ice opened a little and the vessel commenced cutting her way through. The Kite came to a heavy bar of ice and the order was given to go astern and then charge the obstruction.

Lieut. Peary was behind the wheel house, unknown to the officer on the bridge. The rudder struck a large cake of ice and was knocked over to port. The wheel was sent flying out of the hands of the two helmsmen, the iron tiller hitting Lieut. Peary on the right leg below the knee, breaking both bones. It was a clean track and everything looked favorable for a rapid recovery.

He was carried below and a couch rigged up for him in the saloon. His private physician, Dr. Cook, decided that the occurence need not interfere with the expedition, as he would probably be as well as ever in three months from the time of the accident.

On July 16 the Kite was nearly lost. She got nipped between two floes which began to come together rapidly. All hands were put to work and by digging and blasting the vessel was saved from destruction. On the same night a polar bear attacked the ship and was killed at a range of 59 yards, several shots out of the volley of 30 having taken effect.

By a series of small stages Cape York was reached July 20. It seemed impossible to go further and it looked as if the expedition must be abandoned, as it appeared impracticable even there. On July 23, however, the ice suddenly opened and a course was made clear to McCormack bay.

The spot selected for the camp was on the south side of the bay, latitude 77 degrees 43 minutes, longitude 70 degrees 13 minutes or about on a line with the most northerly point reached by the Jeannette expedition.

A house was built on the slope of a mountain 1,800 feet high, with the glaciers pouring down the hills in all directions. On July 30 the Kite bade the party farewell and steamed south.

Lieut. Peary wished to impress upon his friends in the United States that the accident to his leg was of small account. This fall the members of his party will explore the Humboldt glacier, Mrs. Peary perhaps going along, and next April or May he and two others will go north to find the northern terminus of Greenland.

Lieut. Peary relies on his whaleboats to get back to Danish Greenland, a distance of 600 miles, after the work is done next year. It is the unanimous opinion of the Kite's captain and officers and the academy party that he cannot do this with less force, and that to attempt it would be folly.

If, therefore, a relief expedition is not sent next year, the outfit will be in a bad way. An interesting study was made by the academy party of Arctic highlanders of Ittiblu and Cape York. A native tent, two kayaks, or canoes and weapons were secured for the world's fair. This is undoubtedly the most complete collection made.

FARMERS' COMBINATIONS.

New York is Not in Line With Kansas Farmers.

The Wild Scheme of General Stores Suggested in Kansas, Not Popular in the East.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 24.—A press dispatch received here this morning says that a grand co-operative scheme was proposed at the convention of the Farmers' alliance which adjourned Friday night at Kansas City and that this scheme was sprung by S. W. Sandusky, and is identical with the plan which has been adopted by the New York Alliance commercial organization, which is said to be chartered with a capital stock of $2,000,000, one-sixth of which is paid up.

Mr. Sandusky, the dispatch said, explained that the plan contemplated the formation of a central co-operative agency to do all the purchasing and distributing of goods to co-operative stores, which were to be founded in every city, village and hamlet in Kansas, and that a committee was appointed to examine into the plan and was instructed to report at the next convention, which is to be held in Salina on October 20.

The committee will find no such plan in operation in this state. No articles of incorporation of any such organization has been filed in this state and the secretary of state is not aware of the existence of any such organization. There are several Farmers' alliance insurance companies but no co-operative plan inaugurated in this state.

A DEEP DYED VILLAIN.

More About the Career of F. C. Almy.

Jealousy Led Him to Commit the Deed.

A Midnight Visit to the Room Christie Warden Was Supposed to Occupy Before the Murder.

Hanover, N. H., Aug. 25.—Miss Jeannette Thomas, a relative of Professor Pattee, whose connection with the Almy case has often been referred to, tells a story of a midnight visit received from the murderer on July 15, two days before the murder of Christie Warden.

She says that on that night she occupied a room usually slept in by Christie Warden. About midnight she was aroused by some one in her room. Asking who was there she was grappled by the throat. Her assailant at the same time said: "Keep still; I won't harm you."

The intruder then asked of the affrighted woman if the room was not the one usually occupied by Christie and demanded to know where she was.

He was informed that Miss Warden had left the house that afternoon. He then asked the name of the occupant of Christie's bed, and was told. After receiving this information he said: "I am Christie's lover. Her parents and sister are opposed to my suit and I cannot see her at her home. Don't mention this intrusion by me to her or anybody else. If it became known that a man visited her chamber her reputation would be blasted forever. I am sure you would not want that to occur. Now, would you?" he added with a sarcastic laugh.

The villian, Miss Thomas goes on to relate, then pressed a pistol to her breast and made her pledge most solemnly that she would never reveal his visit. He said he had been in the room before and asked if the door was fastened. This question, Miss Thomas says, branded him a liar as there was no fastening to the door. Almy subsequently forced an object into her hand, which proved to be a 44-calibre cartridge.

He told her to keep it as a memento of his visit and a reminder of her oath not to reveal it and solemnly declared he would kill her if she ever mentioned his intrusion to a living soul.

Almy then departed. Miss Thomas' story confirms the theory that has long prevailed. It is that Almy was intensely jealous of Prof. Pattee and that because of this jealousy the most cruel and unjust suspicions had arisen within his breast, involving his victim and the professor.

It is also believed that this jealousy was the cause of Almy's midnight visit to Christie's room with the belief, it is conjectured, that he would find grounds for his suspicions and was perpared if matters were as suspected, to kill both Miss Warden and the professor.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Prices Current for Produce and Other Articles.

The market quotations in the BEE are compiled from United Press special dispatches and item reports received by the Toledo Produce Exchange, and specially arranged by Mr. Denison L. Smith, secretary of the Exchange.

OFFICE OF THE TOLEDO BEE, TOLEDO, O., Aug. 25.

[By London wheat market 3d to 6d lower. Corn easier. Liverpool wheat improving and higher. Corn lower.

The receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,079,408 bu, compared with 303,344 bu on the same day last year.

Shipments of wheat from India last week equaled 1,440,000 bu. Previous week, 1,320,000 bu. From April 1, the commencement of the crop year, to Aug 22, 29,040,000 bu, compared with 11,780,000 bu in the corresponding period in 1890.

The imports into the United Kingdom for the week were 2,920,000 bu of Wheat and 105,000 bbls of flour, equal to 3,032,000 bu of wheat, and 960,000 bu of corn.

The quantity of flour and wheat on ocean passage increased last week 344,000 bu. Corn decreased 1,288,000 bu

Our table herein of available wheat and corn shows a decrease of 1,354,670 bus wheat, and a decrease of 945,531 bu corn.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 776,164 bus in excess of the corresponding Tuesday in 1890.

The exports of wheat from two Atlantic ports yesterday were 430,352 bus, and flour to an aggregate of 500,000 bus.

English markets as reported herein are cheaper in London and higher for wheat in Liverpool. Corn lower.

There is but little of news that has any interest and bearing upon wheat values to talk about. The next thing to wait for is the report of the Vienna grain and flour congress which assembles September 1st. It is expected to be bullish, because it is believed to be, in a sense, an authority for European production and shortage of grain and as, at present, the question of their approximate efficiency is any body's question, it is well to have the report of the congress upon it. Mr. W. E. Bear, an English writer, as printed by us yesterday, makes the deficiency in Europe and England 320,000,000 bu, and has been increased by bad weather almost everywhere, which has damaged and destroyed a great deal of wheat in England, as well as on the continent. Mr. Bear, being an Englishman and reporting on English crops ought to be considered reliable. We shall have a place for all our wheat. We do not believe the great stories about aggregate yields of winter or spring wheat in this country, and the consequent enormous surplus for export. Private estimates are too often made on the basis of the large yields, which become notorious, while the smaller and more common yields are not noted. We hope the government will settle the minds of people so far as concerns winter wheat at its next publication.

The wheat markets on this side are nearly steady. The opening was dull and prices weak and the bears succeeded in pounding off about 1c but there was a recovery later. The bear dealers and bear letter writers are daily hunting around for reasons for a slump in wheat and the only element in sight which favors their theory is the large movement in this country. It is solitary and alone, but it gives them confidence. How long winter wheat will continue to move largely, and how largely northwestern wheat will move, and when, are beyond our ken.

Toward the close the wheat markets began to advance and closed in New York ¾c higher on August and September. In Chicago September closed 1⅛c up at $1 03¼; December 1⅛c up at $1 01¾.

Corn has turned upon its enemies to-day and gored them. In this cereal, also, the only bear element is receipts, but they cannot continue at present rate, and the consumption is large. In New York August closed 1½c and Sept 1¾c up.

In Toledo—There has been a better business going in wheat futures. There has been no new element in the deal, and while prices opened a little lower and declined, and finally regained the loss and closed ½c higher for August and September and 1c higher for December. On the call September sold at $1 04½, October at $1 05, December at $1 07@1 06¾. After the call August sold at $1 04¼@1 03¼ and closed at $1 05. September sold at $1 03¾ and closed at $1 05; December sold at $1 06¾ and closed at $1 07¼. Cash wheat was in fair demand and sold freely. No 2 soft commenced at $1 05¾ and closed at $1 05, a gain of ½c; No 3 soft at $1 02 to $1 03; rejected No 1 at 96c; No 1 white at $1 02; No 2 white at $1 00.

Corn—No 2 at 65¼c; No 3 at 65c; No 1 yellow at 65¼c.

Oats—No 2 for May at 37c; No 2 for cash, 33½; No 2 white, 35c.

Rye was more quiet and nearly steady; No 2 cash and August, at 95c; September at 94½c to 94¾c.

Clover seed was quiet and steady; October, $4 95; December, $5 00.
